THE 10 BIGGEST NEWS STORIES OF 2001

The WWF Buys WCW

1 World Wrestling Federation Entertainment paid AOL Time Warner a paltry $2.5-million for World Championship Wrestling, which included all trademarks, its video library, and the contracts of 24 wrestlers. The deal was made on March 23, and Vince McMahon addressed the audiences of WWF Raw and WCW Monday Nitro in an unprecedented simulcast three days later.

For the benefit of the WWF crowd in Cleveland, the WCW fans in Panama Beach, Florida, and the millions watching at home, McMahon claimed victory after his 20-year effort to monopolize the industry's major leagues. He said the way to beat a billionaire like Ted Turner was to "become one yourself."

Shane McMahon revealed himself to be the true owner of WCW in an angle saved for the conclusion of the Nitro telecast. WCW was supposed to be operated as a separate promotion initially, but TNN's wariness of yet another wrestling show, the weak WCW roster, and WWFE's creative missteps led to an ill-conceived invasion angle, which started weak and tapered off. In fact, former ECW stars had to join the WCW roster by July, forming the Alliance.

The WWF recognized WCW championships for the next few months, but the WCW World tag team and U.S. heavyweight titles were merged into the WWF World tag team and Intercontinental titles, respectively, at Survivor Series. Chris Jericho beat Steve Austin to unify the WWF and World (formerly WCW) titles in December.

Two ex-WCW superstars to benefit from the merger were Booker T, who established himself as a headliner against The Rock by the end of summer, and Ric Flair, who signed with the WWF in November and became an on-air co-owner. Unfortunately, the merger ultimately resulted in the releases of several former WCW mid-card wrestlers, including Evan Karagias, Elix Skipper, and Kid Romeo. The glut of WCW stars also prompted the release of WWF developmental talent such as Joey Abs, Joey Matthews, Christian York, American Dragon, and Spanky.

2 Fusient's Bid To Purchase WCW Fails

Eric Bischoff, who was spearheading Fusient Media Ventures' bid for WCW, was attending most booking meetings and television shows, and the announcers were already discussing the pending arrival of new owners on the air. Turner Broadcasting executives had even given Bischoff creative control.

Fusient CEO Brian Bedol touted his company's purchase of WCW from AOL Time Warner in a press release: "We're going to re-establish WCW as the champion in professional wrestling. There is huge untapped potential for the franchise and, with Eric Bischoff on board, we will crank everything up to make the WCW franchise even bigger, better, stronger, and more entertaining than anything wrestling fans have experienced before."

Bischoff, who was slated to become WCW president again, discussed his plans on wcw.com on the day of the sale announcement. He announced his intention to bring Hulk Hogan back to the company, reinstate Scott Hall if he were straight and sober, reduce foul language on television, develop new talent, and refrain from re-establishing himself as an on-air character.

But, while Fusient specialized in resuscitating struggling brands, WCW had been losing $60-million per year, and a closer examination of the books revealed a company in even more financial trouble than previously thought. AOL Time Warner even threatened to shut down WCW altogether.

Fusient backed out of the deal completely when new Turner Broadcasting CEO Jamie Kellner discontinued pro wrestling on TNT and TBS. Without a cable deal as part of the contract, Fusient executives figured they couldn't work a miracle.

ECW Goes Out Of Business

Quite a few of the wrestlers in the locker room were predicting ECW's demise by the end of 2000, and that remained the prevalent sense when the company held its final pay-per-view on January 7. Guilty as Charged could have been viewed as a nostalgic farewell or a desperate attempt to keep ECW alive.

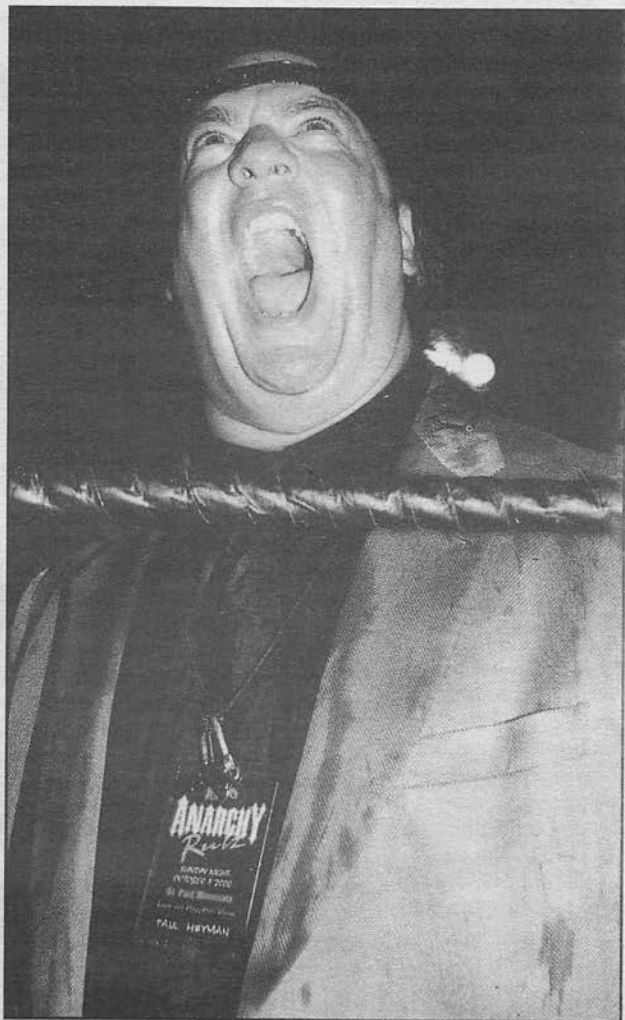

The Sandman defeated Justin Credible and then-champ Steve Corino in a three-way match to win the ECW World title. TV champ Rhyno demanded an immediate title match and beat Sandman for the World belt a few minutes later. And Rob Van Dam made a surprise return to defeat Jerry Lynn in another of their superb encounters.

Then Paul Heyman, unable to afford his payroll, sent many of his top stars to the WWF with his best wishes. Justin Credible signed in January, Rhyno and Spike Dudley debuted in February, and Jerry Lynn first appeared in March. Heyman himself replaced Jerry Lawler as color commentator on March 5, and became a member of the WWF's creative team. Soon, ECW filed for bankruptcy.

The extreme promotion re-entered the spotlight on July 9 in Atlanta, when stars such as Rob Van Dam and Tommy Dreamer joined former ECW alumni such as Tazz, Raven, Mike Awesome, Lance Storm, and The Dudley Boyz to form the Alliance with WCW. Shane McMahon introduced his sister, Stephanie, as the new owner of ECW that evening, and Heyman became the group's spokesman.

The WWF, of course, beat ECW and WCW at Survivor Series to put an official end to both organizations.

4 Chris Jericho Unifies The Two World Championships

For the first time in 40 years, an undisputed world champion reigned supreme, as Chris Jericho beat the two most popular stars in the industry, Steve Austin and The Rock, to unify the WWF and World (formerly WCW) heavyweight titles on December 9.

Austin went into Vengeance as the WWF champ and retained his title against Kurt Angle to advance to the unification match. Jericho beat The Rock for the World title a second time, this time with the help of Vince McMahon, and advanced to the final against "Stone-Cold."

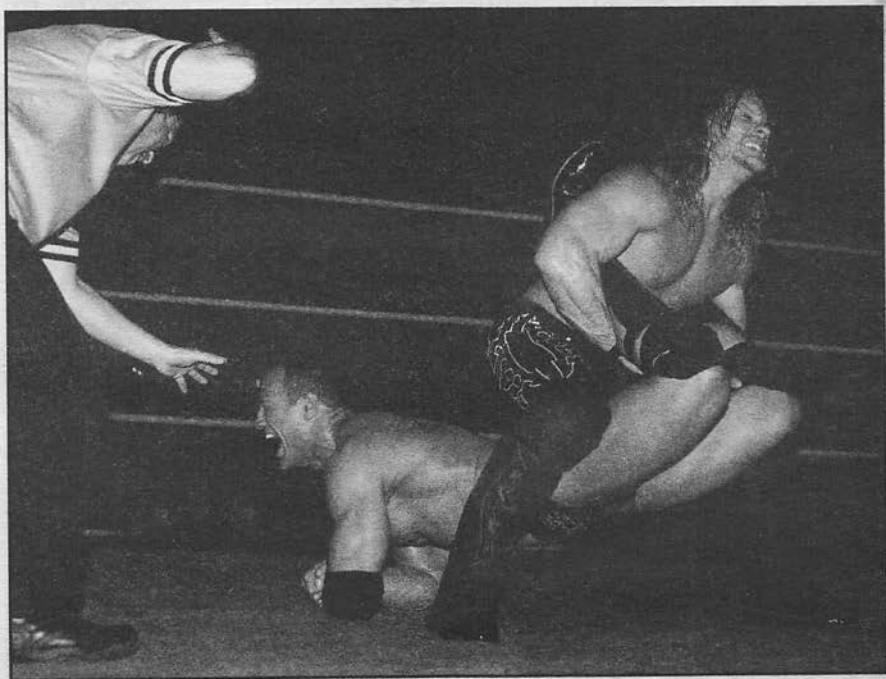

Jericho was still winded from his taxing 19-minute bout with The Rock, while Austin had time to rest for their encounter. Kurt Angle avenged his loss by hitting Austin with a steel chair before the opening bell. Then The Rock interfered, flooring Jericho with a Rock bottom. Interference by Vince McMahon, Ric Flair, and Booker T with a chair—along with shaky officiating by Earl Hebner and his mid-action replacement, Nick Patrick—led to Jericho's controversial victory. Y2J was awarded the WWF and WCW world title belts.

George Hackenschmidt in the early-20th century, and Lou Thesz in the 1930s, 1940s, and 1950s, made considerable efforts to unify the various world titles over the years.

Thesz had unified several world titles under the National Wrestling Alliance banner by the early-1950s, but the formation of the American Wrestling Association in 1960—and the recognition of Verne Gagne as champion in the Midwest—brought about two world titleholders, Gagne and then-NWA champ Pat O'Connor.

The pullout of Northeast promoters Vince McMahon Sr. and Toots Mondt from the NWA, and the recognition of Buddy Rogers as the World Wide Wrestling Federation champion in 1963, splintered the world champions even further. World Championship Wrestling began recognizing its own world champion in 1991, rather than subject itself to NWA governance.

Steve Austin Turns Heel

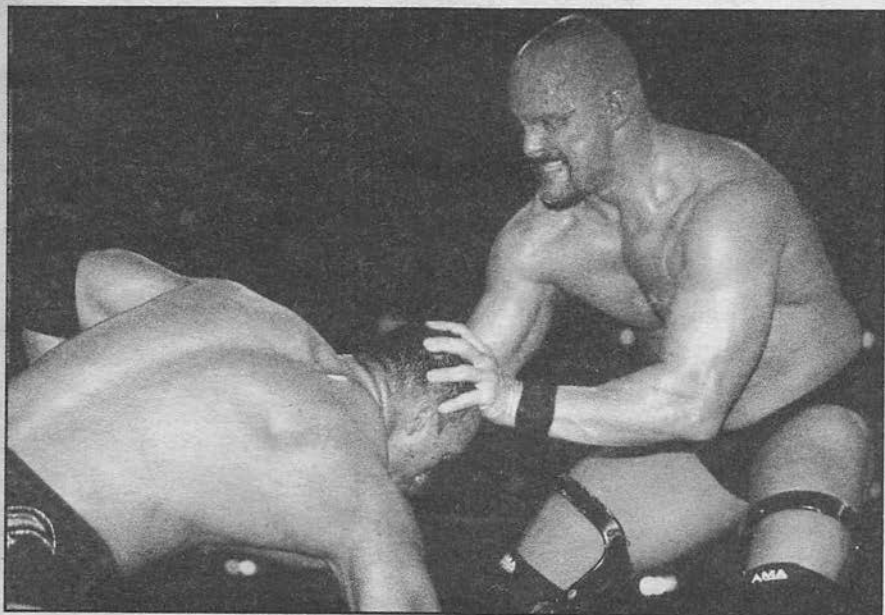

Between 1997 and 1999, Steve Austin enjoyed the hottest run as a fan favorite in the history of the industry. He redefined the role of the wrestling babyface by becoming an anti-hero whose hellraising helped the WWF regain its spot as the world's top promotion. Spinal surgery and a long convalescence sidelined Austin for most of 2000. Austin's character was still fresh upon his return in November of that year, although the WWF had gone a bit stale. Meanwhile, The Rock was becoming more popular than "Stone-Cold."

Using the conventional formulas of the Monday night era, WWF insiders thought it was time for Austin to turn heel. Internet pundits agreed, and it was a good bet that Austin would turn against The Rock at WrestleMania X-Seven.

He did. But there were still a few cheers as Austin bludgeoned The Rock with a chair to steal the WWF title and shared a "Steve-wiser" with Vince McMahon. He formed "The Two-Man Power Trip" with the Federation's most hated villain, Triple-H, the next night.

Austin teased a babyface turn in July, just before the WWF faced the WCW-ECW Alliance at Invasion. But Austin stunned WWF teammate Kurt Angle to help the heel faction get the victory, and defected to the Alliance. With Angle being hailed as an all-American hero, Austin resorted to classic heel tactics, such as stalling, dodging, and outright running. In addition, Austin displayed a comic tendency throughout his heel run, competing with Angle for hugs from Vince McMahon, doing his rendition of "Delta Dawn" in a singalong faceoff with The Rock, and coining the "What?!" catchphrase.

Austin was a dominant WWF champ throughout 2001, with a victory over Chris Benoit and Chris Jericho at King of the Ring, a DQ loss to Kurt Angle at SummerSlam, and another three-way win over Angle and Rob Van Dam at No Mercy. Austin became a fan favorite again after Survivor Series, when Vince McMahon tried to steal the WWF title from "Stone-Cold" and new co-owner Ric Flair stood by his side.

6 The Rock Conquers Hollywood

Vince McMahon's "suspension" of The Rock following WrestleMania X-Seven turned out to be a blessing, not a punishment. The Rock left the WWF for the even zanier world of Hollywood. He headed to Morocco to film an upcoming Universal Studios release, The Scorpion King (due for release in May 2002), a prequel to both The Mummy and The Mummy Returns.

Although The Rock's character, The Scorpion King, appeared in The Mummy Returns for less than five minutes, Universal exploited "The Great One's" appeal for all it was worth. The Rock was depicted prominently on movie posters and billboards, and he appeared on as many talk shows as the leading man, Brendan Fraser.

It was a successful publicity campaign. When The Mummy Returns premiered on May 5, it became the highest-grossing movie in a single day, with gross receipts of $28,594,667. Star Wars: The Phantom Menace had held the record since May 19, 1999.

The Rock received good reviews for his appearance, although Rolling Stone movie critic Peter Travers complained, "If you want to smell what The Rock is cooking, you'll be disappointed." Travers' criticism was actually a compliment because, like so many other moviegoers, he wanted to see more of the people's champion.

In the cover story for the December 1 issue of TV Guide, The Rock dismissed comparisons to other athletes, such as Hulk Hogan and Brian Bosworth, who attempted film careers. "I don't ever worry about any other athlete who has tried acting," he said. Rock asserted that only his acting talent—not his WWF stardom—could make him a viable box office draw. "The loyalty will only go so far before they say, 'Okay, now perform for me. Let me feel your pain, your happiness, your love.'"

Regarding potential dramatic roles, The Rock said, "I'd love that challenge. Give me 10 years." The Rock's career was also chronicled in mainstream publications such as People and Entertainment Weekly.

7 September 11 Attacks Cause Industry Standstill

The terrorist attacks of September 11 affected every aspect of American business, including wrestling. The wounds went beyond financial repercussions, straight to the hearts of everyone involved in the industry. WWF superstars were left stranded in their hotel rooms in Texas, away from their families, as rescue workers combed through devastation at the World Trade Center in New York, the Pentagon in Washington, and the crash site of an American Airlines plane in Pennsylvania.

The WWF and Houston city officials had no choice but to cancel the taping of Smackdown scheduled for the Compaq Center that evening. Two nights later, however, they went ahead with a live edition. It was one of the first public gatherings of its magnitude since the attacks.

Said Linda McMahon: "We do this to support the call by President Bush and other political leaders to get Americans back to their everyday routines after this barbaric act of terrorism and, for many Americans, WWF Smackdown on Thursday night is part of their regular routine. This week's WWF Smackdown will depart from our traditional format and will be a special tribute to the spirit of the American people and our democracy, both of which have shone brightly during this terrible tragedy."

Similar to Raw's Owen Hart tribute in 1999, this edition of Smackdown had a patriotic theme interspersed with sincere comments from WWF wrestlers. Steve Austin shared some uncharacteristically compassionate emotions, while Bradshaw voiced the rage many Americans were feeling.

Less than two weeks later, the WWF had a pay-per-view to air. Unforgiven delivered a feel-good moment when Kurt Angle, in front of a hometown crowd in Pittsburgh, defeated Steve Austin for his second WWF World title.

Angle's character personified America's patriotic resurgence. People flocked to bookstore signings for Angle's autobiography, It's True! It's True! The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette declared the U.S. had found a role model "in a milk-chugging, flag-waving, broad-necked, muscular Yankee Doodle named Kurt Angle, a hometown hero who draped himself in the red, white, and blue long before the tragic events of September 11 made it the thing to do."

MECW, The XWF, And The WWA Enter The Arena

The demise of WCW and ECW early in 2001 left the WWF with a monopoly, plenty of wrestlers unemployed, and fans searching for alternatives. Three contenders arose by mid-year, each hoping to become the world's second-largest promotion. But they'd have to sell tickets first. Main Event Championship Wrestling, the Xtreme Wrestling Federation, and World Wrestling All-Stars pursued different business models to achieve that goal.

MECW tried to begin a grassroots movement modeled after the NWA. Philadelphia, Atlanta, and Evansville, Indiana, were going to comprise the promotion's three home territories. MECW's first major show, at the old ECW Arena, was free of charge. Top free agents such as Curt Hennig, Buff Bagwell, Barry Windham, and Mike Rotundo were at the show, in addition to many former ECW stars. But MECW spent too much too soon and was a non-factor by year's end.

The XWF's approach was the direct opposite of MECW's; Jimmy Hart and other XWF executives decided TV should come first, instead of later. Tapings were held at Orlando's Universal Studios on November 13 and 14. The roster included most of America's top talent not obligated to the WWF.

Among the participants were Bagwell, Konnan, Norman Smiley, Public Enemy, Greg Valentine, Horace Hogan, Chris Daniels, The Nasty Boys, The Road Warriors, Vampiro, Juventud Guerrera, Johnny B. Badd, Rena Mero, Roddy Piper, Jimmy Snuka, Jerry Lawler, Bobby Heenan, Tony Schiavone, Gene Okerlund, and Josh Matthews from Tough Enough. Hulk Hogan defeated Curt Hennig in the most notable match.

The XWF appeared had more financial resources than MECW. A lackluster infomercial failed to generate as many ticket sales as desired at house shows in Indiana, Wisconsin, and Illinois, but several thousand attended each, and the XWF remained an important player at the end of 2001.

Although the WWA was based in Australia, it made the most significant worldwide impact and even took steps to invade the American pay-per-view market. Unlike MECW's grassroots approach and the XWF's television-first approach, the WWA chose a third alternative: house shows, with pay-per-view being its immediate goal.

Owner Andrew Macmanus used his expertise as a concert promoter to give the WWA a major-league feel. Pyrotechnics and big screens were employed during the WWA's successful tours of Australia and the U.K. The promotion showcased former WCW headliners Jeff Jarrett, Scott Steiner, and Bret Hart, along with former WWF stars Road Dogg and Brian Christopher.

9 The WWF's Highs And Lows

As the WWFE empire became more diverse, the highs and lows of its business seemed more like a rollercoaster ride. WrestleMania X-Seven was the most successful event in the industry's history. The Astrodome in Houston didn't enable the WWF to surpass the attendance record at the Pontiac Silverdome, but live-gate receipts of $3.5-million were far above those of WrestleMania III—and this figure didn't account for pay-per-view buy rates. Thanks to advance ticket sales, WrestleMania X-8 broke X-Seven's record—four months before the PPV!

The amazing success of the WWF's premier event illustrates the overall health of the company. There was a combination of factors, however, that made 2001 a not-so-hot year.

Released on November 21, WWFE's second-quarter report indicated that total revenues were $98.2-million, compared to $111.9-million during the same quarter in 2000. A net income drop from $9.5-million in 2000 to $4.8-million in led to the company's first significant "restructuring" in eight years. WWFE released nine percent of its work force (39 employees). Its stock plummeted to a 52-week low of 10.31 on September 17.

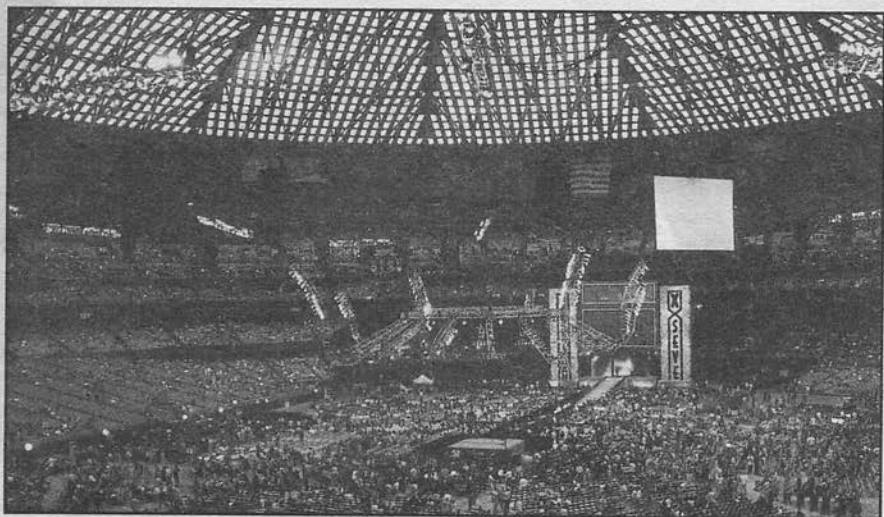

More visible to casual fans would be WWFE's termination of its relationship with DirecTV. CEO

Linda McMahon asserted the satellite provider was a retailer, not a carrier in the same sense as cable-TV companies, and didn't deserve such a large percentage of PPV buy rates. The original contract expired in January, and WWFE ceased its dealings with DirecTV in October.

The most spectacular failure was the XFL. Plenty of viewers tuned in for NBC's first prime-time airing of XFL action, but the league's overall rating fell from an impressive 10.3 to a dismal 3.0 within a few weeks. Business-wise, the XFL wasn't such a disaster, with WWFE absorbing only a $35-million loss and NBC losing the same amount.

In the U.K., the World Wildlife Fund won its suit against WWFE over the use of the initials "W-W-F." The Fund alleged WWFE had violated a 1994 agreement over the use of the initials, and among its demands was that the company should change its Web site address. The Federation is appealing the decision.

The WWF didn't have to worry about WCW raiding its roster this year, but two of its biggest stars—Triple-H and Chris Benoit—went on the disabled list. Triple-H suffered a torn quadriceps muscle in May, and Benoit was forced out in June due to recurring neck and spinal problems. Both superstars missed the rest of 2001.

Another Year Of Death And Tragedy

Wrestling bade goodbye to several individuals who contributed to the business, both inside and outside the ring, in 2001. Johnny Valentine died in a Texas nursing home on April 24 at age 72. The former U.S. champ had fallen from the porch of his house, resulting in an injured back and a twisted colon. He actually hung on to life for eight months—long after physicians had surrendered hope. Valentine was the posthumous recipient of the 2001 PWI Editors' Award.

Three Calgary residents who were prominent in the wrestling industry also died in 2001. Rhonda Singh, who was known as Bertha Faye in the WWF and last appeared in WCW, died on July 27 at age 40. Helen Hart, the matriarch of the Hart family, died on November 4 at the age of 76. The former voice of Stampede Wrestling, Ed Whalen, died of a heart attack one month later at the age 74.

Benny McGuire, who made the Guinness Book Of World Records as half of the world's largest twins, died on March 26 at the age of 54. During his wrestling peak in 1978, McGuire weighed 723 pounds. He teamed with his twin, Billy, who died of heart failure in 1979.

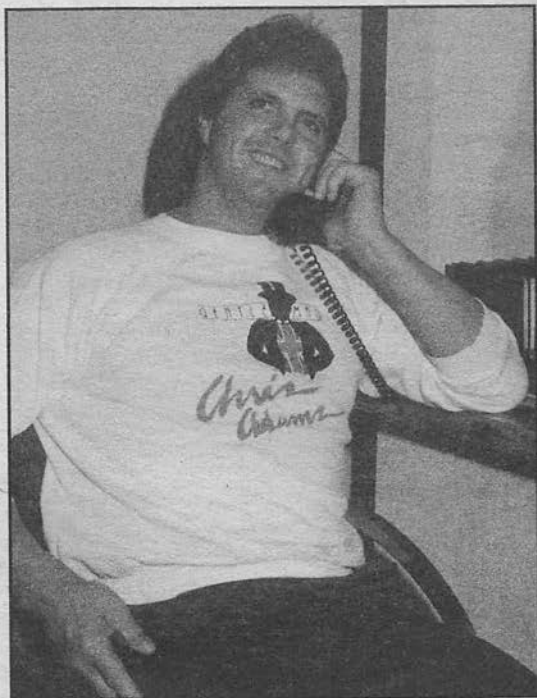

So many died before their time in 2001. Terry Gordy, a founder of The Fabulous Freebirds, was found dead of an apparent heart attack at his Tennessee home. He was only 40.

Fellow World Class star Chris Adams, 46, was killed on October 6 by William Parnell, who served as best man at Adams' wedding only weeks earlier and once saved him from a potential GHB overdose. Parnell claimed roughhousing turned deadly, and that he shot Adams with a .38-caliber handgun in self-defense.

The most surprising death was Russ Haas, a 27-year-old WWF developmental wrestler who most recently competed for the HWA. A heart attack sidelined Haas on September 24, but the problem was attributed to a blood clot. He was scheduled to undergo one more examination for medical clearance back to the ring when he died of heart disease on December 15. Promoter Dennis Coraluzzo, partly responsible for the NWA resurgence of the mid-1990s, also died unexpectedly of a brain hemorrhage.

Hayabusa's career ended on October 22. His feet slipped on the middle rope while he was attempting an Asai moonsault against Mammoth Sasaki, sending Hayabusa crashing on top of his head and leaving him paralyzed. The Frontier Martial Arts star was registering some sensation in his extremities by year's end, giving hope that at least a partial recovery would be possible. □

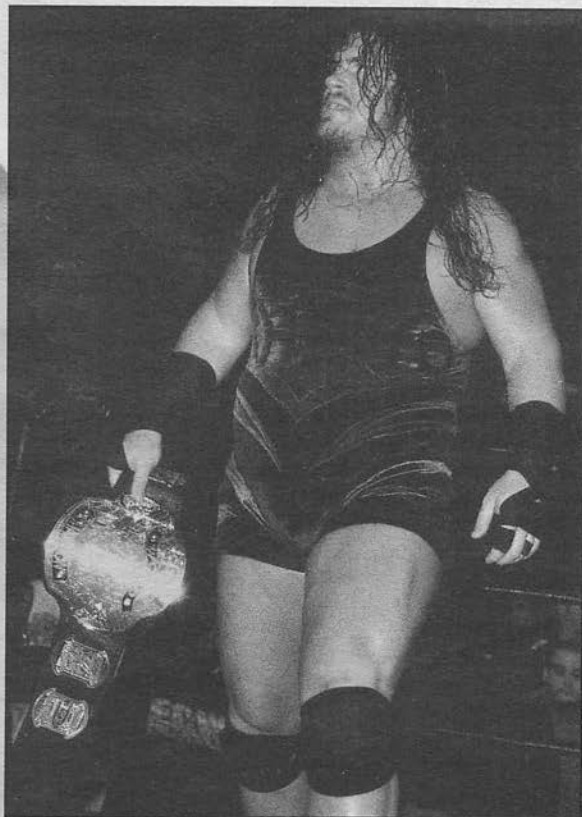

2001: THE YEAR IN WRESTLING

In this extended section, we provide a comprehensive overview of the significant events of the year just passed. Title changes are listed in the section beginning on page 86. For obituaries, please turn to page 30.

January 4: Kensuke Sasaki defeats Toshiaki Kawada in a six-man tournament for the IWGP title at the Tokyo Dome. The other participants are Yuji Nagata, Masa Chono, Hiroyoshi Tenzan, and Satoshi Kojima. Sasaki had vacated the championship following a non-title loss to Kawada on October 9, 2000 ... At the same show, Riki Choshu emerges from retirement to battle archrival Shinya Hashimoto in a very violent fistfight.

January 7: ECW holds its final pay-per-view, Guilty as Charged. The Sandman defeats Justin Credible and defending champ Steve Corino in a three-way match for the ECW World title. TV champ Rhyno demands an immediate title shot and beats Sandman for the World belt a few minutes later. Rob Van Dam returns after a long contractual dispute and defeats long-time rival Jerry Lynn. Missy Hyatt makes a special appearance at the PPV.

Rhyno: ECW's last champ

January 14: Sid Vicious breaks his leg in the main event of Sin. Vicious is dominating Jeff Jarrett and WCW World champion Scott Steiner when he jumps off the top turnbuckle and the grisly break occurs. A masked man, who is supposed to be a mystery opponent in the scheduled four-way match, briefly stomps the writhing Sid with the help of Jarrett and Steiner near the end of the bout. The WCW champ covers Vicious for the victory. The mystery man reveals himself to be Road Warrior Animal, and WCW CEO Ric Flair announces the formation of The Magnificent Seven ... Earlier at the pay-per-view, Buff Bagwell and Lex Luger beat "Sarge" DeWayne Bruce and Bill Goldberg. Due to a special stipulation, Goldberg is forced to retire from WCW ... This event marks Eric Bischoff's unofficial return to power behind the scenes.

January 21: Steve Austin wins the Royal Rumble to earn a WWF World title shot at WrestleMania X-Seven. The final four features Austin, Billy Gunn, The Rock, and Kane. Austin needs to use a stunner and three consecutive chair shots to weaken Kane enough to clothesline him over the top rope for the final elimination ... Also at the pay-per-view, Austin helps WWF World champion Kurt Angle beat Triple-H, and Chris Jericho beats Chris Benoit in a ladder match for his fourth Intercontinental title.

January 31: Kane defeats Leviathan in the main event of Ohio Valley Wrestling's "Christmas Chaos" card, which had been postponed until January because of bad weather in Louisville. Rico Constantino's interference spoils Ohio Valley champ Nick Dinsmore's chance to defeat Chris Benoit. Constantino also has the audacity to interrupt Jim Ross' mid-ring interview with Steve Austin, who stuns Constantino for his actions. At the same show, The Hardy Boyz and Lita beat The Disciples of Synn ... The WWF releases Road Dogg following a suspension for "unprofessional conduct." Road Dogg claims to be as surprised as anyone because he believed the WWF was going to allow him time to handle family and substance abuse problems.

February 1: CBS' Survivor II: The Australian Outback begins the February sweeps war by moving to Thursday nights, against NBC's Friends and UPN's Smackdown. To combat Survivor, Friends extends to 40 minutes, and the WWF bills Smackdown as a special "Xtreme" edition. Smackdown's rating of 4.9 had been very impressive the previous week; that number dropped to 4.0 against Survivor and Friends ... Many programs use wrestling to boost ratings on this night, including the WB's Charmed with several WCW guest stars, A&E's Biography of Hulk Hogan, and A&E's Behind Closed Doors profile of WCW.

February 3: The XFL, a joint venture of WWFE and NBC, debuts to an astounding 10.3 rating as part of NBC's Saturday night lineup. Network executives are thrilled because Saturday night ratings had been poor since the departure of The Golden Girls many years earlier. XFL football games are also scheduled for Viacom networks UPN and TNN.

February 4: David McLain, who promoted the Gorgeous Ladies of Wrestling (GLOW) during the 1980s, showcases his latest venture, Women of Wrestling (WOW), on pay-per-view at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, California. Thug (Peggy Lee Leather) beats Selina Majors (Bambi) in a bloody steel cage match, and Terri Gold regains the WOW title from Danger. Lee Marshall joins former WCW and AWA colleague Bobby Heenan to form the broadcast team.

February 18: WCW World champion Scott Steiner beats Kevin Nash at SuperBrawl Revenge with assistance from Midajah, Ric Flair, and a steel chair. Because Nash placed his career against Steiner's title, "Big Sexy" is forced to leave WCW. The fact that Flair keeps changing the rules of the match—from a regulation match, to a best-of-three-falls match, to a falls-count-anywhere match—as the bout progresses doesn't help Nash's chances.

February 25: Triple-H defeats Steve Austin in a spectacular best-of-three-falls match at No Way Out. Austin wins the first fall in a match with regulation rules, Helmsley uses a sledgehammer to win the streetfight-style second fall, and "The Game" uses the sledgehammer again in a steel cage to determine the decisive fall ... Also at the pay-per-view, The Rock delivers four Rock bottoms through the course of the match to defeat Kurt Angle for his sixth WWF World title, and Chris Jericho retains the Intercontinental belt in a four-way bout.

February 27: The WWF announces it has released Stacy Carter (The Kat) and that her husband, Jerry Lawler, has left the company in protest. Lawler claims he was given no specific reason for his wife's firing, but was told she had "an attitude problem." On his Web site, kinglawler.com, "The King" later posts the following statement: "Let me say that I don't really know what is going on other than that I feel there is more to this than meets the eye."

March 3: Scott Hall begins a New Japan tour after months of legal and personal problems. Former NWO Japan leader Masa Chono introduces Hall to the crowd as his "best friend." Hall, Scott Norton, Hiro Yoshi Tenzan, and Satoshi Kojima lose their eight-man match to IWGP champ Kensuke Sasaki, Yuji Nagata, Manabu Nakanishi, and Yutaka Yoshie.

March 5: Paul Heyman replaces Jerry Lawler as color commentator on Raw. It is later announced that Heyman will be a member of the WWF's creative team. Heyman's WWF appearance douses hopes that he planned to resurrect ECW. In fact, ECW would file for bankruptcy only a few weeks later.

March 9: Plummeting XFL ratings cause WWFE stock to fall to $11.51 per share, its lowest price of the year. The stock had dropped by a stunning 10 points during the past month. ABC, CBS, and Fox had been walloping NBC's XFL games in the ratings every Saturday night.

March 17: Scott Norton defeats Kensuke

Sasaki for his second IWGP heavyweight title at the Nagoya Aichi Prefectural Gym in Japan. He had also beaten Yuji Nagata for the championship in 1998.

March 18: World champion Scott Steiner beats Dallas Page in the main event of Greed, WCW's final pay-per-view, although Booker T takes another step toward the World title by defeating Rick Steiner for the U.S. strap ... Also at the pay-per-view, Shane Helms captures the WCW cruiserweight belt from Chavo Guerrero Jr., and Kid Romeo and Elix Skipper upset former World tag team champs Billy Kidman and Rey Misterio Jr. in a tournament final for the newly established cruiserweight tag team title. Although junior heavyweight tag team championships are a staple of the Japanese scene, it is considered an unusual concept in North America.

March 23: In a stunning move, WWFE pays AOL Time Warner only $2.5-million for WCW. WWFE confirms its plans to operate WCW as a separate company. Viacom had nixed WWFE's bid to purchase WCW in October 2000 because it didn't want competing wrestling programs on TNT and TBS. New Turner Broadcasting Chairman and CEO Jamie Kellner made that a moot point by pulling WCW programming from all Turner networks, thus giving Eric Bischoff and Fusient Media Ventures little choice but to cease negotiations to buy the wrestling company.

March 26: Vince McMahon introduces Monday Nitro by proclaiming, "WCW's fate ... its very fate ... is in the palms of my hands." From the Raw telecast emanating from Cleveland, he addresses WCW and WWF wrestlers and fans in an unprecedented simulcast on TNT and TNN. He teases the idea of resuscitating WCW, then declares that he plans to bury it. But his son, Shane McMahon, makes a surprise appearance in Panama City, Florida, the site of the Nitro telecast, and declares he is the real new owner of WCW ... At Nitro's final telecast, Booker T regains the WCW World title from Scott Steiner, and Sting defeats Ric Flair in the program's last match ever ... Benny McGuire dies (see page 30).

April 1: Steve Austin turns against The Rock and captures the WWF World title at WrestleMania X-Seven. Vince McMahon gives Austin a steel chair, which he uses to batter Rock and make him vulnerable for the pinfall. Austin shakes the hand of McMahon, his former nemesis, after the match ... Also at the pay-per-view, The Undertaker defeats Triple-H to extend his WrestleMania streak to 8-0, and Edge and Christian capture the World tag team title in TLC II ... WrestleMania X-Seven earns $3.5-million at the Reliant Astrodome in Houston, surpassing WrestleMania III in terms of the live gate. The figure doesn't include PPV buys. WrestleMania III still holds the attendance record.

April 2: The Rock's steel cage rematch against new WWF World champion Steve Austin turns ugly when Triple-H uses a sledgehammer to help Austin and McMahon in a vicious three-on-one attack. Helmsley and Austin (with McMahon) create an alliance that is later dubbed "The Two-Man Power Trip." McMahon later announces The Rock has been suspended for his own safety, which actually allows Rock time to film the movie The Scorpion King in Morocco.

April 3: Triple-H beats Chris Jericho for his third Intercontinental title on Smackdown. "The Game" relies on the interference of his wife, Stephanie, and WWF Commissioner William Regal for the victory. It is the second step in "The Two-Man Power Trip's" consolidation of power.

April 10: Jeff Hardy ruins Vince McMahon's grand plans by pinning Triple-H for the Intercontinental title on Smackdown. Matt Hardy hits Helmsley with a chair, enabling his younger brother to deliver a swanton bomb. It is by far the biggest singles victory of Jeff's career.

April 13: Steve Corino defeats Redd Dogg Begnaud for the NWA North American title in Fort Worth, Texas. The win secures an NWA heavyweight title shot for Corino later in the month.

April 16: Triple-H regains the Intercontinental belt from Jeff Hardy on Raw. "Power Trip" partner Steve Austin attacks Matt Hardy backstage and chases Lita to ringside, distracting Jeff long enough for Triple-H to execute the pedigree and score the three-count.

April 21: The Best Of Memphis Wrestling debuts on WMC-TV. The WWF had pulled its developmental deal from Power Pro Wrestling, and then WMC studios cancelled its live Saturday morning program—which had survived in some form for 34 years—due to insurance liability issues. Ironically, The Best Of Memphis Wrestling taped highlight show scores higher ratings than the live program because of appearances by Jerry Lawler, Lance Russell, and Terry Funk, along with footage of classic Memphis bouts.

April 24: Steve Corino defeats Mike Rapada for the NWA title at the Fort Homer Hesterly Armory in Tampa. He pins Rapada with the old school expulsion at the 22-minute mark. Corino joins Sabu and Terry Funk as the only men to hold both the NWA and ECW championships ... Johnny Valentine dies (see page 30).

April 29: WWF World heavyweight champ

Steve Austin and Intercontinental champ Triple-H beat The Undertaker and Kane for the World tag team title at Backlash. In this winner-takes-all match, the man pinned was to lose his championship. Triple-H hits Kane with a sledgehammer for yet another tainted victory ... Also at the pay-per-view, Chris Benoit defeats Kurt Angle, four falls to three, in a 30-minute "Ironman" match requiring overtime ... On the Sunday Night Heat pre-show, former ECW World heavyweight champ Jerry Lynn holds on to Crash Holly's tights to capture the WWF light heavyweight title in his WWF TV debut.

May 5: The Mummy Returns, featuring The Rock in a special appearance, shatters a two-year record by earning $28,594,667, making it the highest-grossing single day for any film in history. The movie, starring Brendan Fraser, eclipses Star Wars: The Phantom Menace, which held the record since May 19, 1999 ... The Undertaker defeats WWF champ Steve Austin and Intercontinental champ Triple-H in a handicap match at the U.K.'s Insurrexion PPV, held at the Earl's Court in London. Because The Undertaker pins Triple-H, he doesn't win Austin's World title, which was on the line. One of Austin's knee braces grazes Undertaker's ear, which requires emergency cosmetic surgery upon his return to the States.

May 7: Perry Saturn manhandles preliminary wrestler Mike Bell during a Metal taping held just before a live airing of Raw. Saturn throws Bell over the top rope, causing him to land awkwardly on his head. Then he bodyslams Bell, full-force, into the ringside steps. WWF officials admonish Saturn after the match. Saturn does not participate at the following night's Smackdown taping.

Francine: Big bids came in May 10: Vince McMahon announces the discontinuation of the XFL after just one season. It is estimated that WWF and NBC both lost $35-million in the equal partnership. "The quality of play just wasn't there," states NBC Sports Chairman Dick Ebersol the following day. A series of fumbles had caused the XFL's prime time Saturday ratings to plummet from 10.3 to an embarrassingly low 3.0 within a few weeks.

May 17: Francine becomes the latest star to put some of her time up for auction on eBay. The highest bidder is promised two to three hours with Francine at Dave & Buster's, a Philadelphia nightclub. Bids reach $11,500 by the end of the month, but the auction is eventually halted because many of them are illegitimate.

May 20: WWF World champion Steve Austin beats The Undertaker at Judgment Day. Triple-H runs to ringside with a sledgehammer as Vince McMahon leaves the announcers' table to interfere. Kane tries to make the rescue, but he's too late, so Austin pins a distracted Undertaker at the 21-minute mark ...

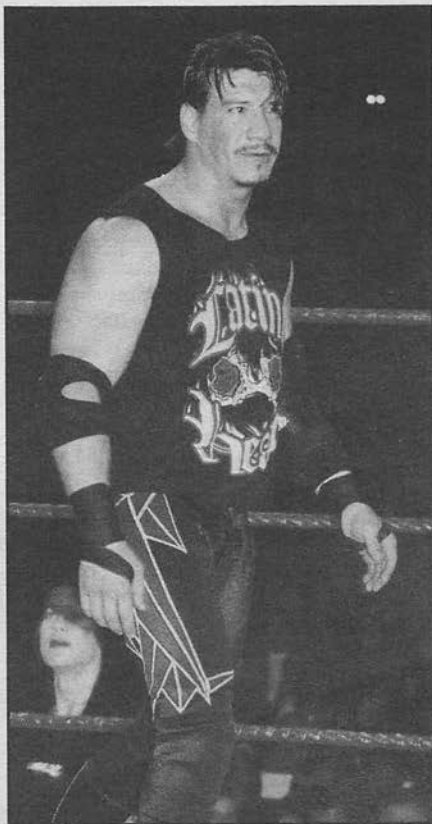

Earlier at the pay-per-view, Kane—despite his broken arm—pins Triple-H in a chain match for the Intercontinental title, Kurt Angle beats Chris Benoit in a best-of-three-falls bout, and Benoit later teams with Chris Jericho to defeat Edge and Christian in the final segment of "Tag Team Turmoil" to earn a shot at WWF tag team champs Austin and Triple-H the following night.

May 21: Chris Benoit and Chris Jericho defeat WWF World heavyweight champ Steve Austin and Triple-H for the World tag team title on Raw. The victory is supposed to launch Benoit and Jericho's long-awaited elevation to the top tier. Their win turns out to be even more significant because Triple-H tears his quadriceps muscle, which runs through the thigh, during the match. Triple-H misses eight months of action, ending "The Two-Man Power Trip."

May 28: Grandmaster Sexay (Brian Christopher) is arrested for possession of illegal drugs at a checkpoint on the U.S.-Canadian border. When the wrestler finally arrives at Calgary's Saddledome, WWF management terminates his contract. Later, Christopher admits drugs were in his car, but insists they didn't belong to him ... Lance Storm makes a surprise appearance on Raw, signaling the start of the WCW invasion of the WWF. Hugh Morrus, Stacy Keibler, and Dallas Page appear over the next few weeks.

June 2: Kurt Angle, along with other standouts, is inducted into the National Wrestling Hall of Fame during a ceremony in Stillwater, Oklahoma. During his acceptance speech, he stresses the importance of amateur wrestling and pays tribute to his "inspiration," the late Dave Schultz.

June 4: WWF officials send Eddie Guerrero home after "Latino Heat" exhibits erratic behavior backstage at Raw. Guerrero checks into a rehabilitation facility two days later. Jim Ross, the WWF's vice president of talent relations, later recounts the incident during an interview on Slam! Wrestling, "This was the first time that we had seen Eddie in this degree of condition and, the first time we saw him at this level, we shut everything down. We sent him home, we made the arrangements to get him into therapy and rehab, and we are standing solidly behind him and his family while he's going through treatment."

June 17: WCW champ Booker T appears at the end of King of the Ring's main event—WWF champ Steve Austin, Chris Benoit, and Chris Jericho in a three-way match—and throws Austin through a table, breaking his hand. Benoit aggravates previous neck injuries during the same match, and spinal surgery forces him out of action for the rest of the year ... Also at the pay-per-view, Edge beats Kurt Angle in the King of the Ring tournament final, and Angle almost breaks Shane McMahon's neck en route to winning their streetfight.

June 15: Jimmy Hart wins a 20-man battle royal at the Mid-South Coliseum in Memphis, the site of some of his most notorious achievements. The participants at the "Clash Of The Legends" show feature a who's who of Memphis wrestling, including Jerry Lawler, The Road Warriors, Curt Hennig, Rocky Johnson, Jimmy Valiant, and Porkchop Cash. Hart avoids much physical contact to emerge victorious. Sputnik Monroe presents "The Mouth Of The South" with the keys to a 2002 Cadillac Escalade.

June 20: The WWF terminates its developmental deal with Memphis Championship Wrestling. Joey Matthews, Christian York, American Dragon, Spanky, and Shooter Schultz—along with Joey Abs and Rodney of The Mean Street Posse—are among those to receive termination notices. The WWF relocates Steve Bradley, The Island Boys, Lance Cade, and Charlie and Russ Haas to the HWA, the WWF's new developmental territory. Victoria is moved to OVW.

June 22: Jim Ross announces that women's champ Chyna will no longer be on the WWF roster. Sources suggest Chyna asked for a salary in the same league as Triple-H, The Rock, and Steve Austin. Chyna was also lured by the prospect of an acting career and more time at home ... Chris Adams is indicted for manslaughter in connection with the death of his 30-year-old girlfriend, Linda Kaphengst. Adams, 45, faces a maximum of 20 years in prison and a $2,000 fine if convicted. Kaphengst died on April 22, 2000, when she and Adams mixed an often-used club drug, GHB, with alcohol.

June 28: WWFE releases its fourth-quarter report, signaling the end of the company's fiscal year. WWFE reported a gross income of $379-million, down from $456-million the previous year. WWFE stock had dropped by an alarming 28 cents per share, despite what were still considered to be healthy numbers.

July 7: Supreme suffers burns over 25 percent of his body when he dives face-first through a flaming table during a death match against Kaos at the Grand Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles. XPW manager Veronica Caine had doused the table in too much lighter fluid, making it far too combustible ... At the same show, XPW champion The Messiah defeats Vampiro and Sabu in a three-way main event. The Sandman comes to the rescue when The Messiah and the Black Army attack Sabu after the match.

Chyna: No WWF in her future

July 9: Paul Heyman leads the unofficial reformation of ECW, and Shane McMahon reveals an alliance between ECW and his company, WCW. McMahon also introduces his sister, Stephanie, as the new on-air owner of ECW ... Rob Van Dam returns to the WWF on this edition of Raw, emanating from the Philips Arena in Atlanta.

July 16: Terry Gordy dies (see page 30).

July 18: Joey Matthews wins the Maryland Championship Wrestling Shane Shamrock Memorial Cup in Glen Burnie, Maryland. He defeats Nick Berk in a qualifying bout, then survives a six-way elimination match featuring ECWA champion Scoot Andrews, Mike Quackenbush, Red, Mikey Whipwreck, and the previous year's winner, Qenaan Creed.

July 21: The Southern title changes hands three times during one edition of Memphis Championship Wrestling's weekly TV show. Joey Abs beats Steve Bradley for the belt in a no-disqualification ladder match, Bradley regains the strap in an immediate rematch, and Seven beats an exhausted Bradley in a special challenge bout to end the show.

July 22: WWF champ Steve Austin defects to the WCW/ECW Alliance at Invasion. In a showdown between Team WWF and Team WCW/ECW, Austin stuns teammate Kurt Angle, who was about to force WCW champ Booker T into submission with an anklelock. "Stone-Cold" celebrates with Shane McMahon, Stephanie McMahon-Helmsley, Paul Heyman, and other Alliance members ... Also at the pay-per-view, WWF tag team champs The Acolytes defeat WCW tag team champs Sean O'Haire and Chuck Palumbo in a non-title match, WCW cruiserweight champ Billy Kidman beats WWF light heavyweight champ X-Pac in a non-title bout, and Rob Van Dam flattens Jeff Hardy with the five-star frog splash to capture the WWF hardcore title.

Austin: It was all a ruse

July 24: Kurt Angle defeats Booker T for the WCW World title on Smackdown. Angle survives a chair shot from Chris Canyon and a stunner from Steve Austin to force Booker to submit to the anklelock in Angle's hometown of Pittsburgh. Angle joins an exclusive group of wrestlers to hold both the WCW and WWF world championships. Booker T foolishly awarded Canyon the U.S. belt earlier on the program.

July 27: Rhonda Singh dies (see page 30).

July 29: Dennis Coraluzzo dies (see page 30).

July 30: WWF light heavyweight champ X-Pac pins Billy Kidman for the WCW cruiserweight title on Raw. X-Pac becomes the first wrestler since Dean Malenko to win both championships and the very first to hold them simultaneously. Kidman had embarrassed X-Pac with a non-title win at Invasion.

August 9: The Hardy Boyz defeat Edge and Christian and Chris Canyon and Dallas Page in the three-way main event at the Brian Pillman Memorial Show in Cincinnati. Matt Stryker's HWA cruiserweight title victory in a four-corners match—which also involves Shark Boy, Chad Collyer, and defending champ Pepper Parks—is considered by many to be the best match of the night ... In other bouts, Steve Corino retains the NWA title against David Flair, and Nick Dinsmore pins Race Steele for the HWA belt. The Pillman show is the HWA's premier event of the year, and an opportunity for some WWF stars to face HWA talent ... Dean Malenko creates a bit of controversy at the show by stating if his match at Pillman 2001 were to be his last, he considered it an honor to have wrestled in front of such appreciative fans. News of Malenko's retirement spreads across the Internet before "The Man Of 1,000 Holds" reiterates the operative word was "if."

August 16: Smackdown airs live and unveils a new set, with a huge fist punching through glass and two off-center big screens. The Rock goes to a no-contest with WCW World champion Booker T in a lights-out match. Another live show is scheduled for the following week.

August 19: Kurt Angle beats WWF World champ Steve Austin by disqualification at SummerSlam. Austin knocks out referee Earl Hebner, uses the stunner on a second referee, and hits a third referee with the World title belt. Alliance referee Nick Patrick, the fourth official to enter the ring, disqualifies Austin for abusing the other referees, allowing "Stone-Cold" to keep his title ... Also at the pay-per-view, The Rock defeats Booker T for the WCW World heavyweight title, WCW tag team champs The Undertaker and Kane nearly destroy U.S. champion Chris Canyon and Dallas Page for the WWF tag team belts inside a steel cage, and WCW cruiserweight champ X-Pac wins the WWF light heavyweight strap from Tajiri.

Angle: Belt should have been his

August 21: Florida mainstay Lex Lovett, with surprising help from rival Jason Rumble, beats Mike Thunder for the NWA junior heavyweight title. Rumble reveals his ulterior motive by attacking Lovett afterward and demanding a title shot for the NWA's 53rd anniversary show, scheduled for October 13.

August 25: WWF Excess debuts on TNN at 10 p.m. Eastern time. The two-hour Saturday night (mostly) highlight show, hosted by Jonathan Coachman and Trish Stratus, earns only a 0.9 in its premiere. The low rating is despite the guest appearance of Triple-H, who had been sidelined for more than three months. Excess replaces Livewire and Superstars, the one-hour highlight shows that aired on Saturday and Sunday mornings, respectively.

September 11: Terrorist attacks on New York's World Trade Center and The Pentagon in Washington, D.C.—along with the crash of an American Airlines plane in Pennsylvania—strongly impact the wrestling industry. WWF management and Houston city officials cancel the Smackdown taping scheduled for the Compaq Center in the evening, and wrestlers are left stranded in Texas when all U.S. airports are closed.

September 13: UPN airs a live edition of Smackdown with a patriotic theme interspersed with sincere comments from WWF stars. Bradshaw, in particular, expresses the rage many Americans are feeling at the time.

September 17: The Undertaker and Kane lose the WWF tag team title to The Dudley Boyz in Nashville. Although they remain the WCW tag team champs, Undertaker and Kane no longer control the industry's two world tag team titles. Their historic run as dual champions lasted a month ... WWFE stock falls to $10.31 per share, a 52-week low, after the New York Stock Exchange opens for the first time since the September 11 catastrophe. Credit Suisse First Boston downgrades its forecast of media and cable companies in light of the impending war and certain recession, further debilitating the stocks of WWFE, Viacom, USA Networks, Walt Disney, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, among others.

September 22: Carlee Colon and Ray Gonzales beat Thunder and Lightning by disqualification in the main event of a show in Caguas, Puerto Rico, that draws 4,000 fans. Carlos Colon tears into old rival Barrabas Sr. for helping his son, WWF junior heavyweight champion Barrabas Jr., gain a tainted pinfall over Eddie Colon.

Bradshaw: Very strong words

September 23: Kurt Angle gives Americans a feel-good moment with a red, white, and blue victory over Steve Austin for the WWF World title at Unforgiven, held in his hometown of Pittsburgh. Members of the Olympian's family hoist him onto their shoulders to celebrate his win ... Also at the pay-per-view, WCW World heavyweight champion The Rock survives Test's interference to defeat Booker T and Shane McMahon in a handicap match, WWF tag team champs The Dudley Boyz win a four-way bout, WCW tag team champs The Undertaker and Kane devastate Kronik, and WWF hardcore champion Rob Van Dam beats Chris Jericho.

October 2: Governor Jesse Ventura sparks controversy when he and his wife, Terry, visit the World Trade Center disaster site to present

10,000 cards and letters—signed by a total of 40,000 Minnesotans—to rescue workers. Members of the Minnesota press corps allege they were kept out of the presentation in favor of ABC's Good Morning America, which paid for Ventura's trip. Ventura's spokesman cites security restrictions as the reason.

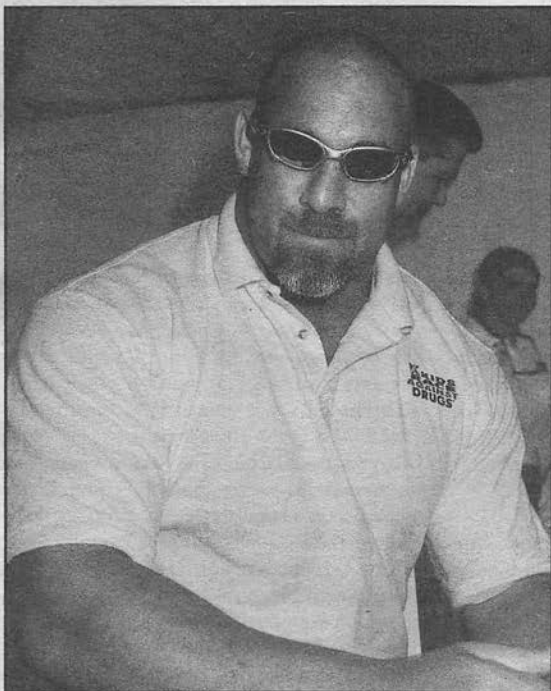

October 3: Bill Goldberg retracts his criticism of the WWF for not sending wrestlers to New York's Ground Zero. After learning that the WWF had donated $1-million to relief efforts and that WWF wrestlers had visited the site, Goldberg says, "Well, I spoke too soon; and I am man enough to admit when I'm wrong." During his visit on September 26, Goldberg had said, "After inquiring about whether or not any WWF wrestlers had been to New York to offer support for the policemen and firefighters, it's amazing that—even though the WWF is basically based in New York City—none had been by there. Or at least to the places where we had been, and with the people we saw and spoke with. That's disgusting."

October 7: Chris Adams dies (see page 30).

October 8: Linda McMahon fires William Regal and reappoints Mick Foley WWF commissioner. Regal defected to the Alliance the previous night when he hit Kurt Angle with the WWF title belt, enabling Steve Austin to execute the stunner and regain the championship.

October 13: Shinya Hashimoto brutalizes heavyweight champ Steve Corino and induces massive blood loss at the NWA's 53rd anniversary show. Senior referee Fred Richards deems Corino unfit to continue, but the NWA title can change hands only via pinfall or submission. New NWA President Jim Miller makes his first executive decision by declaring the title vacant ... At the same event, the "War Games"-style steel cage match intended to settle the promotional feud between NWA Florida and IPW Hardcore Wrestling is ruled a no-contest at the nine-minute mark. An NWA Wildside contingent overwhelms all the combatants, prompting NWA Florida and IPW to join forces ... Also at the 53rd anniversary show, Jason Rumble captures the NWA junior heavyweight title in a five-way match.

Goldberg: Spoke too soon

October 21: WWF World champion Steve Austin defeats Kurt Angle and hardcore champ Rob Van Dam in a three-way main event at No Mercy. Shane McMahon tries to attack Angle, but is intercepted by his father, Vince, who supports Van Dam. Austin capitalizes on the distractions and uses the stunner to pin Angle ... Also at the pay-per-view, Chris Jericho beats The Rock for the WCW World title and the biggest win of his career, Edge regains the Intercontinental belt

Rock: Getting the gold back from Christian in a ladder match, The Dudley Boyz retain the WWF tag team straps against The Big Show and Tajiri, and Test upsets Kane.

October 22: High-flying FMW star Hayabusa is left paralyzed when his attempted Asai moonsault during a pay-per-view match with Mammoth Sasaki goes awry and he lands on his head. Doctors were hopeful of at least a partial recovery when, by year's end, Hayabusa was feeling some sensation in his extremities.

November 3: Steve Austin retains the WWF World title against The Rock at Rebellion, held at the Manchester Evening News Arena in England. Kurt Angle hits The Rock with the WWF title belt, enabling "Stone-Cold" to score the pinfall ... Also at the pay-per-view, Angle loses to WCW World champion Chris Jericho, and William Regal defeats former manservant Tajiri by submission.

November 4: Helen Hart dies (see page 30).

November 5: The Rock regains the WCW World title from Chris Jericho on Raw. Y2J attempts to lock on the Walls of Jericho when Rock surprises him with a quick rollup pinfall. Jericho brutalizes the already-bloody Rock by hitting him with the WCW title belt and three chair shots. Jericho's heel turn is complete.

November 9: WWF star Eddie Guerrero is charged with driving under the influence, stemming from an early-morning accident. He had crashed his vehicle into the gate of an apartment complex in Tampa, causing $500 worth of damage. According to the Tampa Tribune, the 34-year-old Guerrero failed two breath tests. He is fired by the WWF soon after ... CEO Linda McMahon announces WWFE will implement its first significant round of layoffs in eight years. She says the company will release 39 employees, which comprise nine percent of its work force. Stuart Snyder resigns as president and chief operating officer.

November 14: Hulk Hogan makes his first in-ring appearance since July 2000 when he headlines two days worth of television tapings at Orlando's Universal Studios for the newly established Xtreme Wrestling Federation. He uses the big boot and legdrop to defeat Curt Hennig.

November 18: Team WWF—comprised of WCW champ The Rock, Chris Jericho, The Undertaker, Kane, and The Big Show—beats Team Alliance, which includes WWF champ Steve Austin, Kurt Angle, Booker T, Rob Van Dam, and Shane McMahon, at Survivor Series. Angle turns against Austin with a wicked chair shot, which enables Rock to score the pinfall and officially destroy the Alliance ... Also at the pay-per-view, WWF World tag team champions The Dudley Boyz beat The Hardy Boyz in a steel cage title-unification match, thereby eliminating the WCW World tag team title, and WCW United States champion Edge is declared the WWF Intercontinental champion after defeating Test in another title-unification bout.

November 19: Ric Flair makes a surprise appearance on Raw in Charlotte and claims he was the "consortium" to which Shane and Stephanie McMahon had sold their WWFE stock in the early-summer. He faces down Vince McMahon and announces he is, in effect, co-owner of the WWF. Flair signs a three-year contract with the WWF ... On the same program, Vince McMahon fires Paul Heyman from his color commentator's position and replaces him with the returning Jerry "The King" Lawler. Steve Austin returns to the good graces of the fans by aligning himself with Flair, and William Regal becomes the first person to join the new Vince McMahon Kiss My Ass club and thus avoids being fired.

November 24: IWA champion Nuevo Gran Apolo defeats Glamour Boy Shane in the best-of-three-falls main event at the Bruiser Brady Memorial Show in Bayamon, Puerto Rico. Dutch Mantel, Tiger Ali Singh, Heriberto Lopez, and Commissioner Savio Vega are among those who interfere in the third and deciding fall.

November 26: The Undertaker turns heel by forcing Jim Ross to "kiss" Vince McMahon's butt on Raw in his native Oklahoma.

December 1: Scott Steiner debuts in World Wrestling All-Stars during a show in Birmingham, England. He loses the three-way main event when WWA champion Jeff Jarrett hits the other participant, Road Dogg, over the head with a guitar and scores the pinfall.

December 4: Ed Whalen dies (see page 30) ... Rikishi returns to Smackdown and gives Vince McMahon the most disgusting stinkface ever.

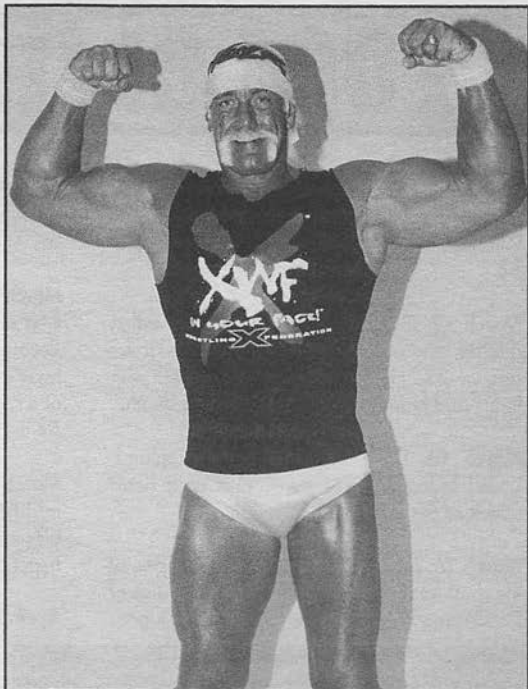

Flair: Had a surprise for Vince

Due to a prematch stipulation, McMahon is actually supposed to kiss "The Great One's" butt after the WWF chairman and Kurt Angle lost to Rock and Trish Stratus on Raw, but Rock gives Rikishi the honors. A serious shoulder injury had sidelined Rikishi for six months.

December 5: The law firm of Lovell & Stuart files a class-action lawsuit on behalf of all investors who acquired WWFE stock between its initial sale date of October 18, 1999, and December 6, 2000. The suit alleges WWFE violated federal securities laws by not disclosing several brokerages that served as underwriters for its initial public offering had allocated WWFE shares to their customers at $17 per share on the condition they would purchase additional shares at progressively higher prices. According to Lovell & Stuart, this allowed investors to sell the stock at artificially high prices, and resulted in substantial commissions being "kicked back" to the brokerages. WWFE denies any wrongdoing.

December 9: Chris Jericho unifies the WWF and World (formerly WCW) titles at Vengeance to become the first undisputed world champion in 40 years. In the mini-tournament to crown the undisputed champion, WWF champ Steve Austin defeats Kurt Angle, and Jericho beats WCW champ The Rock, leading to Y2J's victory over Austin ... Also at the pay-per-view, The Undertaker choke-slams Rob Van Dam off the stage and to the floor 20 feet below to capture the WWF hardcore belt, and Intercontinental champion Edge pins William Regal ... During an appearance on the Get In The Ring radio show, former referee Billy Silverman blasts the WWF for condoning hazing. He accuses some WWF wrestlers, specifically Bradshaw, of continually harassing new employees.

December 10: Booker T forms an alliance with Vince McMahon and becomes the WWF chairman's point man in his feud with Steve Hogan: Was he XWF or not?

Austin. Booker and McMahon enjoy a skybox view of the unfolding events on Raw.

December 15: Russ Haas dies (see page 30) ... Former WWF World champion Shawn Michaels appears on Excess. Michaels admits he would love to re-form The Kliq with Triple-H, X-Pac, Scott Hall, and Kevin Nash. He claims to miss wrestling "every now and then," but would have to check with his wife and doctors before considering a comeback ... Shinya Hashimoto wins the vacant NWA title by beating Steve Corino and Gary Steele in a three-way bout.

December 20: Hulk Hogan appears on ESPN's Unscripted and hints at a return to the WWF. Host Chris Connelly accuses Hogan of merely flirting with the fledgling XWF, and Hogan admits it is true. Hogan praises Vince McMahon for his business acumen, and Triple-H for his work ethic. He calls his WrestleMania III match against Andre the Giant the best of his career.

December 25: Mike Davis dies (see page 30).

2001 Obituaries

January 4: Jose de Jesus Diaz Mendoza, who gained great fame in Mexico competing as Villano I, dies of a heart attack at the age of 54.

March 12: Ozzie Timmins, a former wrestler, referee, and historian of the sport, dies at the age of 81. He had been hospitalized with heart and kidney ailments prior to his death.

March 16: Dave Vicious, a New England-based independent wrestler, dies of a heart attack at the age of 32.

March 26: Johnny "Red Shoes" Dugan, one of the most famous referees of the 1970s, dies of Parkinson's disease at the age of 89. Dugan, who officiated as recently as the mid-1980s, refereed some of the biggest matches ever in Los Angeles.

March 28: Benny McGuire, a former wrestler who once made the Guinness Book Of World Records for being one-half of the world's heaviest twins (with brother Billy, also a wrestler) at a combined 1,600 pounds, dies at the age of 54 in Hendersonville, North Carolina.

March 29: Rolando Vera, a former NWA middleweight champion and one of the biggest stars in Mexico in the 1950s, dies of a heart attack at the age of 86.

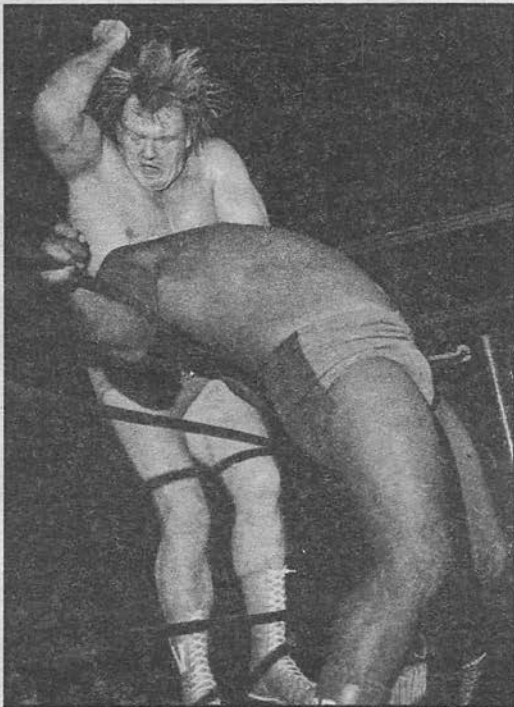

April 2: Reisor Bowden, a broadcaster/ring announcer for Bill Watts' Mid-South Wrestling in the 1980s, dies of cancer at the age of 74.

April 24: Former wrestler Johnny Valentine, father of wrestler Greg Valentine, dies at the age of 72. Valentine, who was one of the toughest wrestlers of all-time, had great feuds with the likes of Wahoo McDaniel and Buddy Rogers. He had his career cut short by the injuries he suffered in a 1975 plane crash that also injured Ric Flair (though not as seriously). He never fully recovered from injuries he suffered in a fall from his porch in the fall of 2000.

June 29: Alex Perez, a former Golden Gloves boxing champion who went on to become a wrestler under the tutelage of Dory Funk Sr., dies at the age of 71.

July 9: Former wrestler/promoter Ace Freeman dies in a nursing home in Western Pennsylvania at the age of 87.

July 16: Terry Gordy is found dead of a heart attack in his home in Soddy-Daisy, Tennessee, by his girlfriend. He was 40. Gordy, who started wrestling at the age of 13, found fame as a member of The Fabulous Freebirds with Michael Hayes and Buddy Roberts. He was also a former All-Japan Triple Crown champion.

July 27: Former WWF women's champion Rhonda Singh (a.k.a. Bertha Faye) dies at the age of 40 in Calgary. A trainee of Mildred Burke, Singh initially gained fame in Japan as Monster Ripper, but she also had success in Mexico and Puerto Rico and a brief run during the Vince Russo era in WCW.

July 29: New Jersey-based promoter Dennis Coraluzzo, who helped to spearhead the NWA revival of the 1990s, dies of a brain hemorrhage at the age of 48. Coraluzzo was instrumental in the early success of wrestlers such as Chris Candido, Tammy Sytch, Crowbar, Billy Kidman, Simon Diamond, D-Lo Brown, Steve Corino, and Russ and Charlie Haas, and he appeared on WWF TV in the mid-1990s as part of an NWA storyline.

October 7: British star Chris Adams is shot to death by his friend William Parnell at the age of 46 in Waxahachie, Texas. Parnell claimed the two had been drinking heavily and that he shot Adams in self-defense when innocent roughhousing turned violent. Adams had his greatest success in the Texas-based World Class promotion in the 1980s. He wrestled briefly in WCW as a member of a British clique as recently as 2000.

November 4: Helen Hart, matriarch of the famed Hart family in Calgary, dies at the age of 76. She had been in a coma since suffering seizures several weeks earlier and also suffered from diabetes.

December 4: Ed Whalen, long-time broadcaster for Calgary's Stampede Wrestling, dies several days after suffering a massive heart attack while on vacation in Florida. He was

Russ Haas

74. Whalen was one of the featured speakers at the funeral of Helen Hart a month earlier.

December 15: WWF developmental wrestler Russ Haas dies in his sleep of heart disease at his apartment in Cincinnati. Haas was 27. He had suffered a heart attack on September 24 and hadn't wrestled since, though he was hoping to get clearance to return on December 18. Russ and brother Charlie were assigned to the Heartland Wrestling Association at the time of his death and were considered promising prospects as a team by the WWF.

December 25: "Maniac" Mike Davis, a journeyman wrestler who gained some fame as a member of the Rock 'n' Roll RPMs tag team in the 1980s, dies of a heart attack at the age of 46 at his home in Granbury, Texas.

2001: THE YEAR IN RATINGS

The following is a breakdown of the Nielsen ratings for WWF and WCW programming for every week of 2001. For cable programs, each ratings point represents about 845,000 households, while each ratings point earned for Smackdown (a broadcast program) represents approximately 1,055,000 households. Ratings breakdowns are presented in "The Business Page" in each issue of PWI.

STATISTICS FOR PROFESSIONAL WRESTLERS

On the pages that follow, you'll find statistics—height, weight, hometown, year (or specific date) of pro debut, and birthday—for hundreds of professional wrestlers worldwide. This list does not purport to be 100 percent comprehensive in presenting every active wrestler, but it does strive to be 100 percent accurate with the information it does present. Many birthdays and pro debuts have been double- and triple-checked through cross-references. Even so, errors may have crept into the list, and there is information that may yet be added (such as determining the specific date of a pro debut, not just the year, or month and year). We invite anyone with additions and/or corrections to this list to send your information to: PWI ALMANAC, Box 1148, Ft. Washington, PA 19034. We will update our list for next year's edition.

PRO WRESTLING ILLUSTRATED ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

Achievement award winners were first presented annually in the pages of Pro Wrestling Illustrated effective with our March 1982 issue, and continued to appear in the March edition until 2001, when it was moved to April. Prior to that, awards appeared in Sports Review Wrestling (1980 awards in the March 1981 edition), Sports Review Wrestling Annual (1977-79 awards in Spring 1978, '79, and '80 editions), and Victory Sports Series Wrestling Annual and Yearbook editions (1972-76 awards in issues #4, 7, 11, 14, and 18).

TITLE HISTORIES

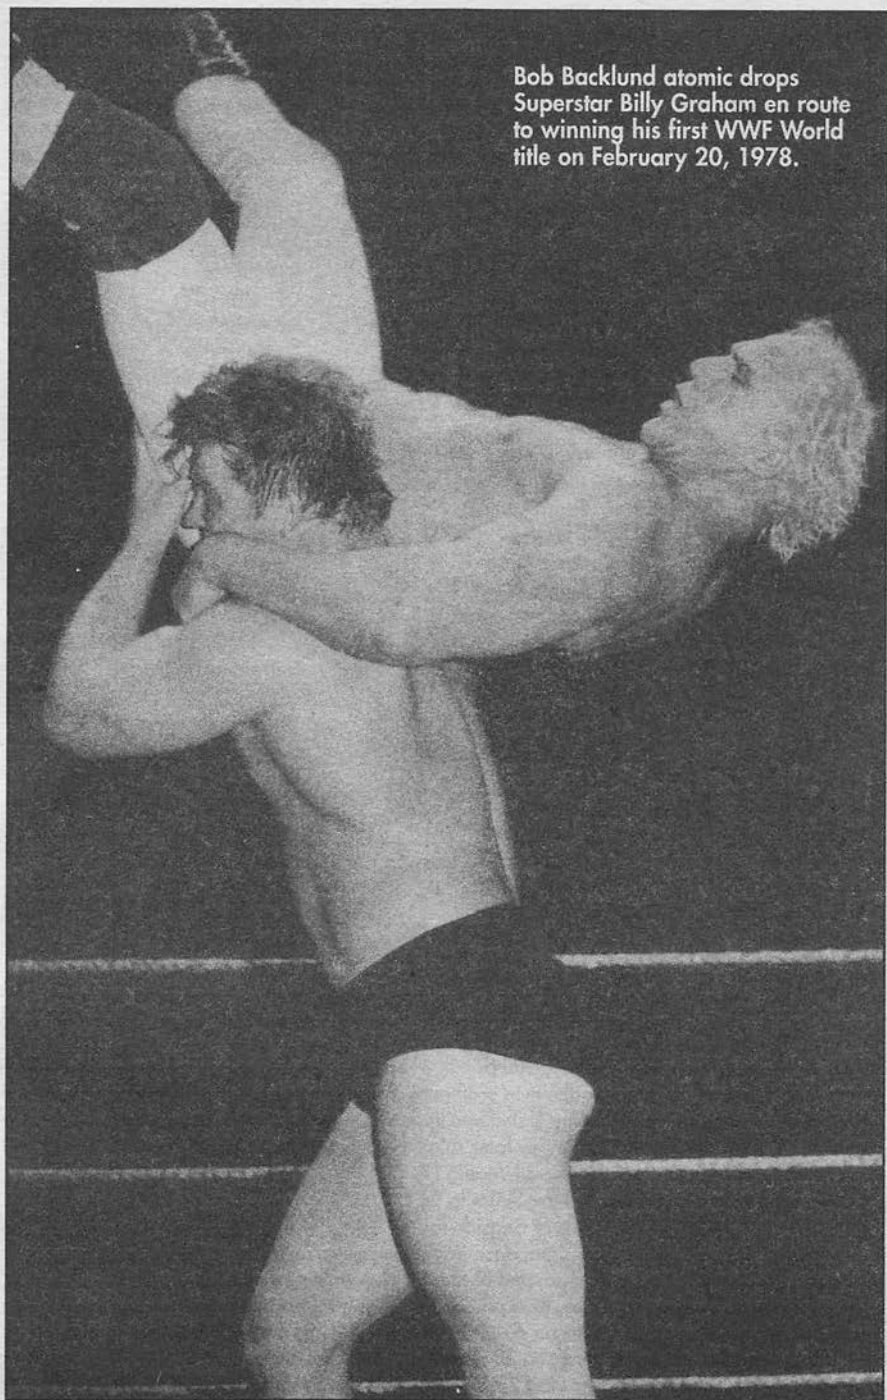

On the pages that follow, you'll find a comprehensive listing of champions for several of the sport's major titles, both current and defunct. WCW and ECW, active for part of the calendar year, are included in the "Active" category. The information we've gathered comes from our own computer and text files; reference sources such as several decades worth of newspaper reports and arena programs; and a superlative reference tool, Wrestling Title Histories, edited by Royal Duncan and Gary Will (for information, contact Royal Duncan, 7600 N. Galena Road, Peoria, Illinois 61615). Listings for currently active championships are updated through December 31, 2001.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ Buddy Rogers won a tournament in April 1963 in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to become the first WWWF champion; he defeated Antonino Rocca in the final.
- ² Andre the Giant scored a controversial pinfall when Hulk Hogan lifted his shoulder at the two-count, but referee Earl Hebner (the twin brother of assigned referee Dave Hebner) continued the count. Andre's reign as champion lasted less than two minutes, as he then gave the belt to Ted DiBiase; WWF President Jack Tunney later ruled that transaction invalid, vacated the title, and ordered a tournament held for WrestleMania IV.
- ³ This was a tournament final at WrestleMania IV.
- ⁴ WWF President Jack Tunney was at ringside for the bout, but was knocked unconscious by the interfering Ric Flair. Undertaker's manager, Paul Bearer, also interfered by attempting to hit Hulk Hogan with his urn. Hogan ducked, and Bearer hit Undertaker instead. Hogan grabbed the urn, threw ashes in Undertaker's face, then pinned him. The following day, Tunney declared the title vacant, with a new champion to be determined at the January 19, 1992, Royal Rumble.
- ⁵ Ric Flair won the title by winning the 30-man Royal Rumble.
- ⁶ This was WrestleMania IX. Bret Hart had Yokozuna in the sharpshooter leglock. Mr. Fuji threw salt in Hart's eyes, enabling Yokozuna to make the pin. Hulk Hogan came to the ring, made an impromptu challenge to Yokozuna, and the two wrestled. Fuji tried throwing salt again during the match with Hogan, hit Yokozuna instead, and Hogan scored the title-winning pin in just 25 seconds. Total length of Yokozuna's reign: 2:07.

⁷ After Shawn Michaels vacated the title due to a knee injury, Bret Hart outlasted Steve Austin, Big Van Vader, and The Undertaker in a four-way elimination match to win his fourth WWF championship.

⁸ Upon orders from WWF head Vince McMahon, Earl Hebner declared that Bret Hart had submitted to Shawn Michaels' "sharpshooter," when, in fact, he hadn't.

¹⁰ This was a special empty-arena, falls-count-anywhere match that was taped for broadcast during halftime of the Super Bowl on the USA Network's Halftime Heat.

¹¹ This was a three-way match also involving Triple-H.

¹² Triple-H won the vacant title by pinning The Rock in a six-man match. Vince McMahon had given it up on September 20.

¹³ This was a three-way match also involving The Rock.

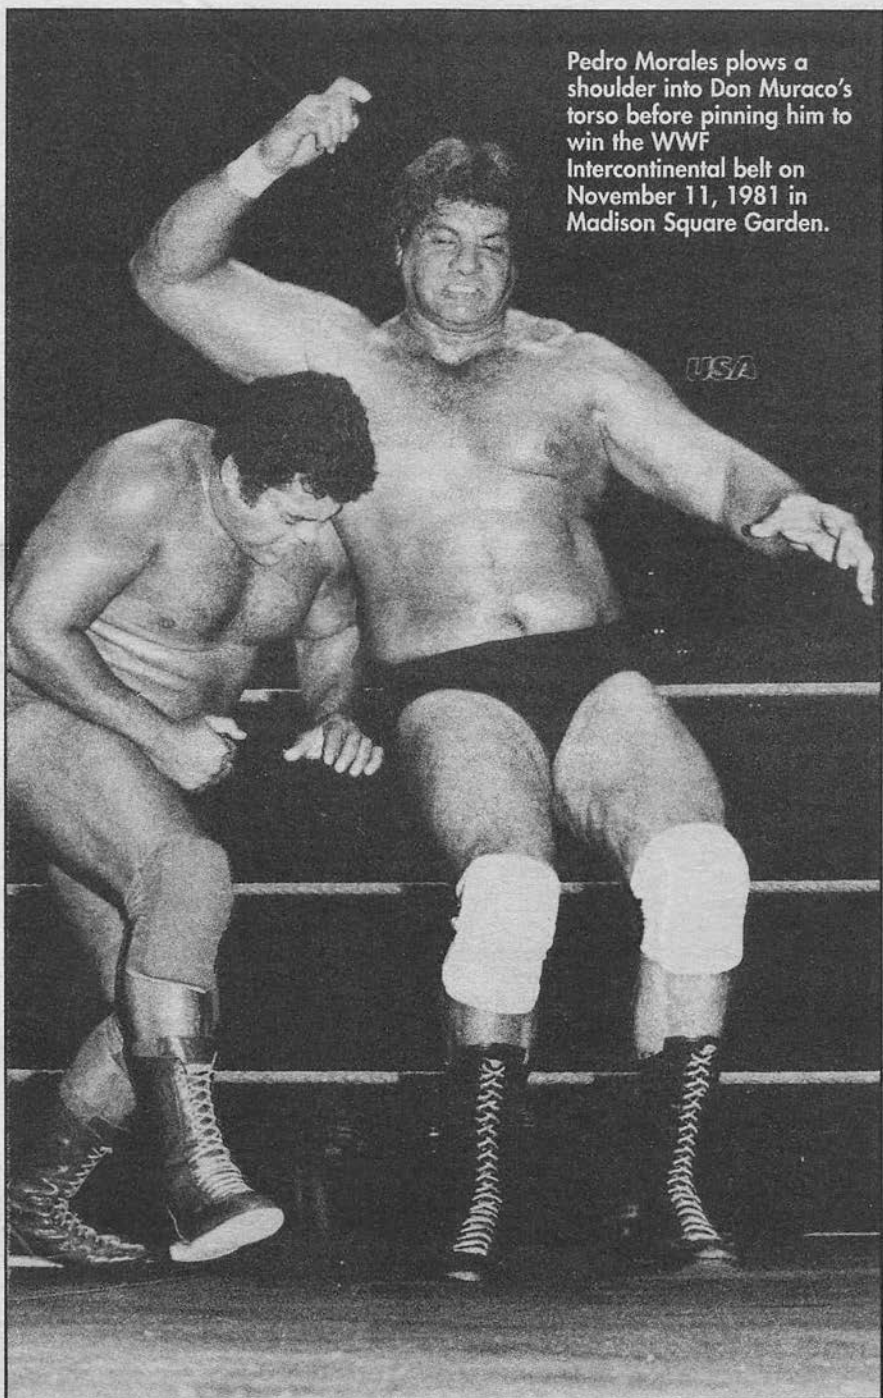

¹⁴ Rock won the belt by pinning Vince McMahon in a six-man tag team match.

¹⁵ This match unified the WWF World and WCW World heavyweight titles.

FOOTNOTES:

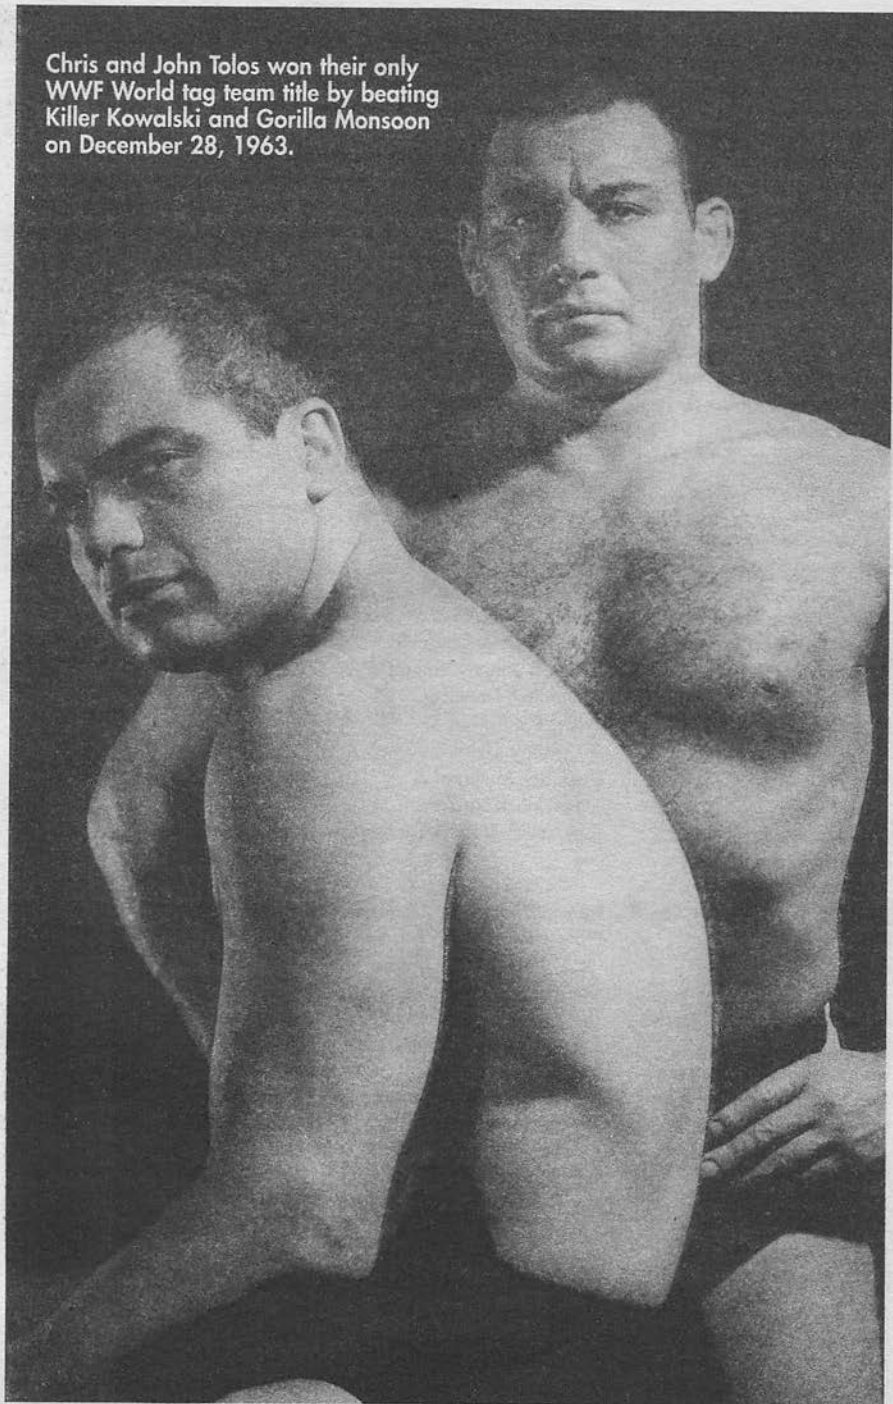

- ¹ Pat Patterson won a September 1979 tournament in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to become the first Intercontinental champion.
- ² This was a tournament final. The Ultimate Warrior was stripped of the title by WWF President Jack Tunney shortly after his WrestleMania VI WWF World title win over Hulk Hogan.
- ³ Razor Ramon and Rick Martel were the last two competitors left in a 20-man battle royal to determine the top contenders to the title. Shawn Michaels was stripped of the title by WWF President Jack Tunney, who read a statement prior to the battle royal claiming the action was due to Michaels having failed to meet certain contractual obligations.
- ⁴ The title had been held up earlier in the evening as the result of a controversial match between Jeff Jarrett and Bob Holly. This rematch filled the title vacancy.
- ⁵ Shawn Michaels was forced to forfeit the title to Dean Douglas at this In Your house pay-per-view due to an injury that occurred a week earlier.
- ⁶ The title had been held up earlier in the evening after a controversial match between Goldust and Vega; this was a rematch.
- ⁷ This was a tournament final; Johnson had been forced to vacate the title after suffering a kidney injury in an altercation with Faarooq.
- ⁸ This was a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when Steve Austin was unable to defend the title due to a spinal injury.
- ⁹ Steve Austin forfeited the title to Rocky Maivia who was awarded the belt by WWF head Vince McMahon.
- ¹⁰ This was the final match of a tournament held to fill the vacancy created when Helmsley was stripped due to a knee injury.
- ¹¹ After Jericho and Chyna simultaneously pinned each other in a December 28 match, Stephanie McMahon-Helmsley ruled that they were both the Intercontinental champ and that both could defend the title.
- ¹² This was a three-way match involving co-Intercontinental champs Jericho and Chyna as well as Hardcore Holly. As a result of his win, Jericho became the undisputed champion.
- ¹³ Benoit won the belt in a three-way match by pinning Chris Jericho.
- ¹⁴ Chyna won the belt by pinning Trish Stratus in a tag team match pitting Stratus & Venis against Chyna & Eddie Guerrero.
- ¹⁵ This was a three-way match also involving Kurt Angle.
- ¹⁶ This was a match to unify the WWF Intercontinental and WCW U.S. titles.

WWF WORLD TAG TEAM TITLE

(NOTE: The Worldwide Wrestling Federation was formed in 1963; the WWWF tag team title was known as the United States tag team title until 1967, when the title became vacant because Bruno Sammartino (whose tag team championship partner at the time was Spiros Arion) was unable to defend both the U.S. tag team title and the WWWF heavyweight title. From 1969 through 1971, the title was known as the WWWF International tag team title. In late-1971, the championship became known as the WWWF World tag team title.)

FOOTNOTES:

² Buddy Rogers had left Johnny Valentine and the title; Valentine chose Chief Big Heart as his partner.

³ Antonio Pugliese left the United States in June 1967; Spiros Arion chose Arnold Skaaland as his championship partner.

⁴ Professor Tanaka and Mitsu Arakawa had won the belts in June 1969 in a tournament in Japan.

⁵ The Mongols left the WWF in early-1971, bringing the International tag team belts with them.

⁶ This is a tournament final. On November 12, 1971, "Crazy" Luke Graham & Tarzan Tyler defeated The Mongols, thus quieting any disputes that the Mongols remained uncrowned champions.

⁷ In June 1975, Victor Rivera announced he was giving up his half of the title; Dominic DeNucci was allowed to choose a new partner, and chose "Irish" Pat Barrett.

⁸ The Executioners were stripped of the title as the result of a match against Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf that was televised on October 26, 1976, during which a third masked Executioner interfered.

⁹ Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf won a three-team tournament, defeating The Executioners and Tor Kamata & Nikolai Volkoff.

¹⁰ This was a tournament final. Shortly after Chief Jay Strongbow & Billy White Wolf won the belts, Billy White Wolf suffered an injured neck during a match against Ken Patera; he and Strongbow gave up the belts.

¹¹ Bob Backlund & Pedro Morales won the title in two straight falls of a best-of-three-falls bout in this Shea Stadium contest. Backlund and Morales gave the belts back to the WWF shortly after the win, since Backlund was WWF World heavyweight champion at the time. The title was declared vacant and an elimination tournament ordered.

¹² This was the final round of an elimination tournament.

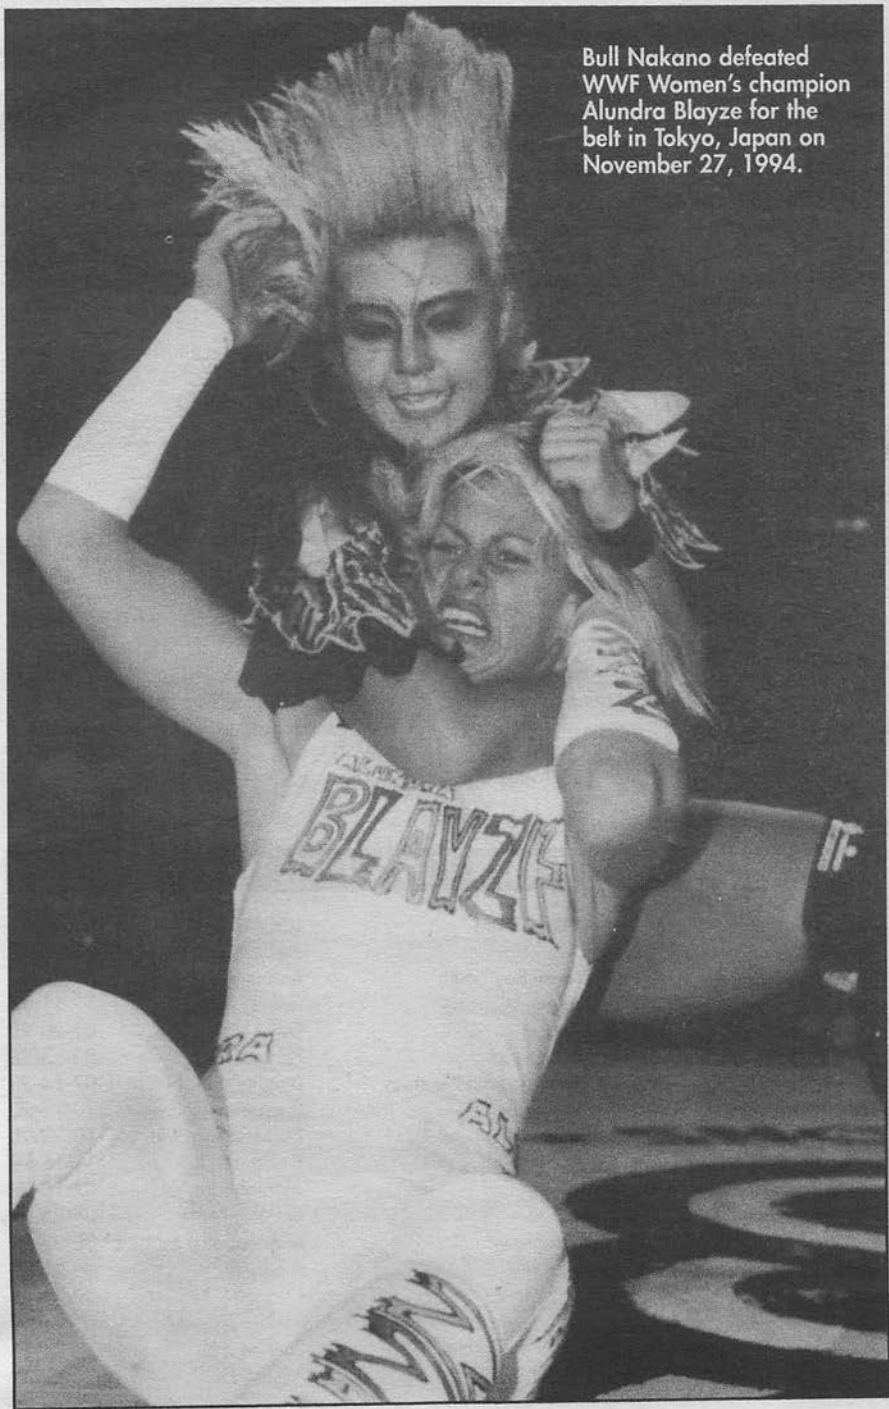

¹³ This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Diesel and Shawn Michaels split up at The Survivor Series, on November 23, 1994.

- ¹⁴ Earlier in the day on September 25, WWF President Gorilla Monsoon stripped Diesel and Shawn Michaels of the title and returned the belts to Owen Hart and Yokozuna.
- ¹⁵ This was a tournament final; The Smokin' Gunns had been forced to vacate the title several months earlier when Billy suffered a neck injury.
- ¹⁶ This was a tournament final to fill the vacancy created when Shawn Michaels walked out of the WWF for a brief period.
- ¹⁷ This was a four-way match that also featured The Road Warriors and The Godwinns.
- ¹⁸ Jack and Funk appeared to win the title one night earlier in a "dumpster" match in Boston, but it was later determined that they failed to lock Gunn and James in the official dumpster for the win, so the title was held up and a rematch ordered.
- ¹⁹ This was a four-team match also involving Rocky Maivia and D-Lo Brown, and Billy Gunn and Jesse James.
- ²⁰ Mankind chose to defend the title on his own when Kane refused to team with him.
- ²¹ This was a three-on-two handicap match also involving the Hardys' manager, Michael Hayes. Bradshaw and Faarooq won when Bradshaw pinned Hayes.
- ²² This was a "Dark Side Rules" match in which Viscera, The Big Show, and Midian were the actual opponents for Mankind and The Rock.
- ²³ Because he was not getting along with The Rock at the time this match was held, Mankind refused to participate and instead sat outside the ring with his back turned to the action.
- ²⁴ This was a three-way ladder match also involving The Hardy Boyz.
- ²⁵ This was a four-corners match also involving The Hardy Boyz and Test & Albert.
- ²⁶ Christian & Edge won this match as the masked Conquistadors.
- ²⁷ Edge defended the title in a handicap match.
- ²⁸ This was a four-way dance that also includes The Dudley Boyz and Road Dogg & K-Kwik.
- ²⁹ This was a three-way TLC match also involving The Hardy Boyz.
- ³⁰ This was a match to unify the WCW and WWF tag titles.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹This was a tournament final.
- ²Moolah wrestled as Spider Lady and unmasked after the victory.
- ³The title became inactive in 1990.
- ⁴This was a tournament final.
- ⁵Blayze (Madusa Miceli) threw the title belt in the trash upon arrival in WCW, leaving title vacant.
- ⁶This was to fill the vacant title.
- ⁷Though Debra had her clothes stripped off first in this evening gown match, she was still declared the winner by WWF Commissioner Shawn Michaels.
- ⁸This was a four-way evening gown match held in a pool that also included Jacquelyn and B.B.
- ⁹This was a lumberjill snow bunny match in which Wippleman dressed as a woman.
- ¹⁰The title was ignored for several months after the WWF announced during the summer that it had ceased negotiations with Chyna on a new contract. This was a six-way match (also involving Ivory, Lita, Jazz, Mighty Molly, and Jacquelyn) for the vacant championship.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ This was a tournament final.

² Goldust impersonated champion Hunter Hearst Helmsley for this match, but WWF Commissioner Sgt. Slaughter allowed the title change to stand.

³ McMahon won the belt by pinning X-Pac in a tag team match. The stipulation on the match said that if someone pinned X-Pac, he would win the title.

⁴ McMahon retired the belt shortly after beating X-Pac at WrestleMania XV, then reactivated it and awarded it to Midian several months later.

⁵ Jarrett gave the title to Henry as a reward for helping him beat Brown for both the European and Intercontinental championships the previous night.

⁶ This was a three-way match also involving D-Lo Brown.

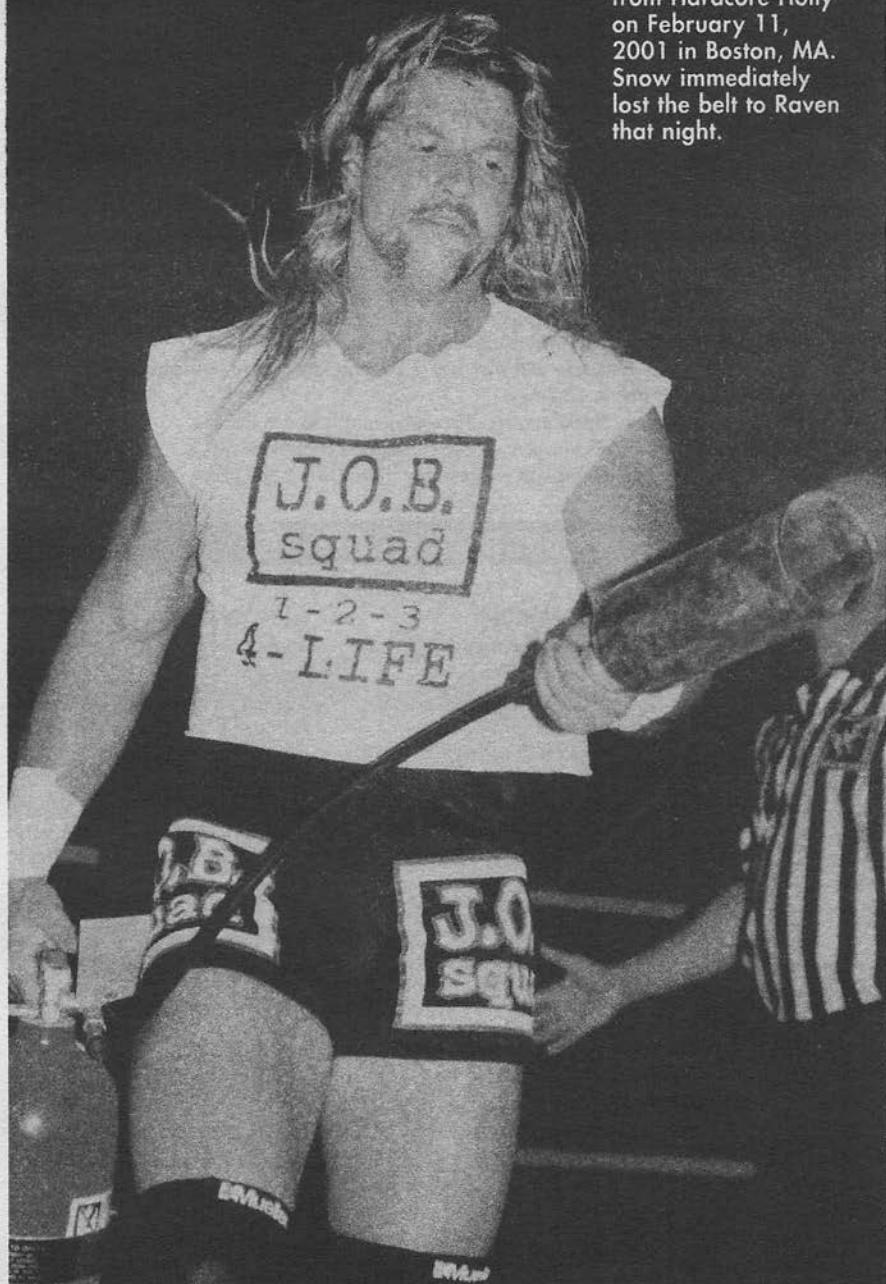

⁷ This was a three-way match in which Jericho pinned Chris Benoit to win the title.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ Mankind had been awarded this new title by Vince McMahon on November 2, 1998, as a reward for his loyalty to the WWF owner and his Corporation.
- ² The title had become vacant six days earlier when champion Jesse James was injured in a locker room altercation and rendered unable to defend it. Holly and Snow were the top two contenders.
- ³ This was a three-way match also involving Al Snow.
- ⁴ Immediately after defeating Bossman for the belt, Smith awarded it to Al Snow.
- ⁵ This was a three-way match also involving The Big Show.
- ⁶ Hardcore Holly was the champion at the end of a 10-man, 15-minute hardcore battle royal in which the title changed hands 10 times.
- ⁷ Holly actually pinned Steve Blackman in a three-way match to win the title.
- ⁸ This was a four-way match also involving Steve Blackman and Al Snow.
- ⁹ Kane actually pinned The Big Show in a three-way match to win the title.

NWA HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

(NOTE: The NWA that most fans know of today, the National Wrestling Alliance, was actually formed in 1948; a second NWA, the National Wrestling Association, came into being in 1929. At various times throughout this century, the lineage of the title has been broken. Special attention should be paid to the late-'20s and early-'30s, during which time the world title splintered into several factions and lineage remains fuzzy at best. As a result we've done our best to highlight major breaks from the main line, and reconnect the lineage where appropriate.)

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ During the first few years of the century, George Hackenschmidt had won world championship tournaments in Italy, Germany, and England. As a result of this match, by defeating American champion Tom Jenkins in two straight falls, he became recognized as top champion in North America.
- ² George Hackenschmidt left the ring, refusing to return, and the referee awarded the title to Gotch, who retired in 1913; his last match was a victory over George Lurich on April 9.
- ³ Charlie Cutler had defeated Henry Ordeman and Jesse Westegard in a tournament, and had laid claim to the world title.
- ⁴ Earl Caddock was awarded the title by the referee when Joe Stecher refused to return to the ring after the second fall.
- ⁵ As a result of this match, Dick Shikat became recognized as the first champion of the National Wrestling Association (NWA), a division of the National Boxing Association.
- ⁶ Henry DeGlane won the title by disqualification.
- ⁷ This match on Long Island, New York, was billed as a world championship match, and was designed to halt the controversy that was splitting the sport at the time. Jim Londos was subsequently stripped of his title for refusing to meet the winner of this bout. Ed "Strangler" Lewis later affirmed his claim on the title with an October 10, 1932, victory over Jack Sherry.
- ⁸ Ed Don George had been claiming rights to the world title ever since he defeated Henry DeGlane in Boston in 1933. Danno O'Mahony, because of his victories over Jim Londos, Ed Don George, and Ed "Strangler" Lewis, became the closest thing to undisputed world champion at the time, representing a unification of sorts of the splintering of the world title that had taken place for several years.
- ⁹ During his title reign, Ali Baba was disqualified in a match against Dave Lewin held in Newark, New Jersey. The State Athletic Commission reversed the match decision and allowed Ali Baba to keep the title. Soon thereafter, however, a rule change was made which stated that the title cannot change hands on a disqualification.
- ¹⁰ The NWA decided to recognize Everett Marshall as champion because Steve Crusher Casey was out of the country and failed to defend the title on a regular basis.
- ¹¹ The National Wrestling Alliance was organized in July 1948. At that particular time, Orville Brown was recognized as champion. Forced to retire due to injuries received in a November 11, 1949, auto accident, Brown relinquished his claim on the title. Lou Thesz was scheduled to meet Brown in a title match in St. Louis on November 25, 1949.
- ¹² Time of the match: 20:38. Ric Flair is (according to WCW officials in April 1992) the first WCW World champion; Sting, therefore, as of April 1992, is a one-time NWA and one-time WCW World champion. In September 1991, Flair signed with the WWF and the NWA title was declared vacant.
- ¹³ This is a tournament final.
- ¹⁴ The title was declared vacant in September 1993 when WCW withdrew from the NWA. It was renamed the WCW International title, held in the year that followed by Rick Rude, Hiroshi Hase, Rude again, Sting, then Flair again, but was finally abandoned when it was unified with the WCW World title at Clash of the Champions XXVII on June 23, 1994.
- ¹⁵ This is a tournament final.

¹⁶ This was a three-way match also involving Brian Anthony.

¹⁷ This was a tournament final. Previous champ Naoya Ogawa voluntarily gave up the title.

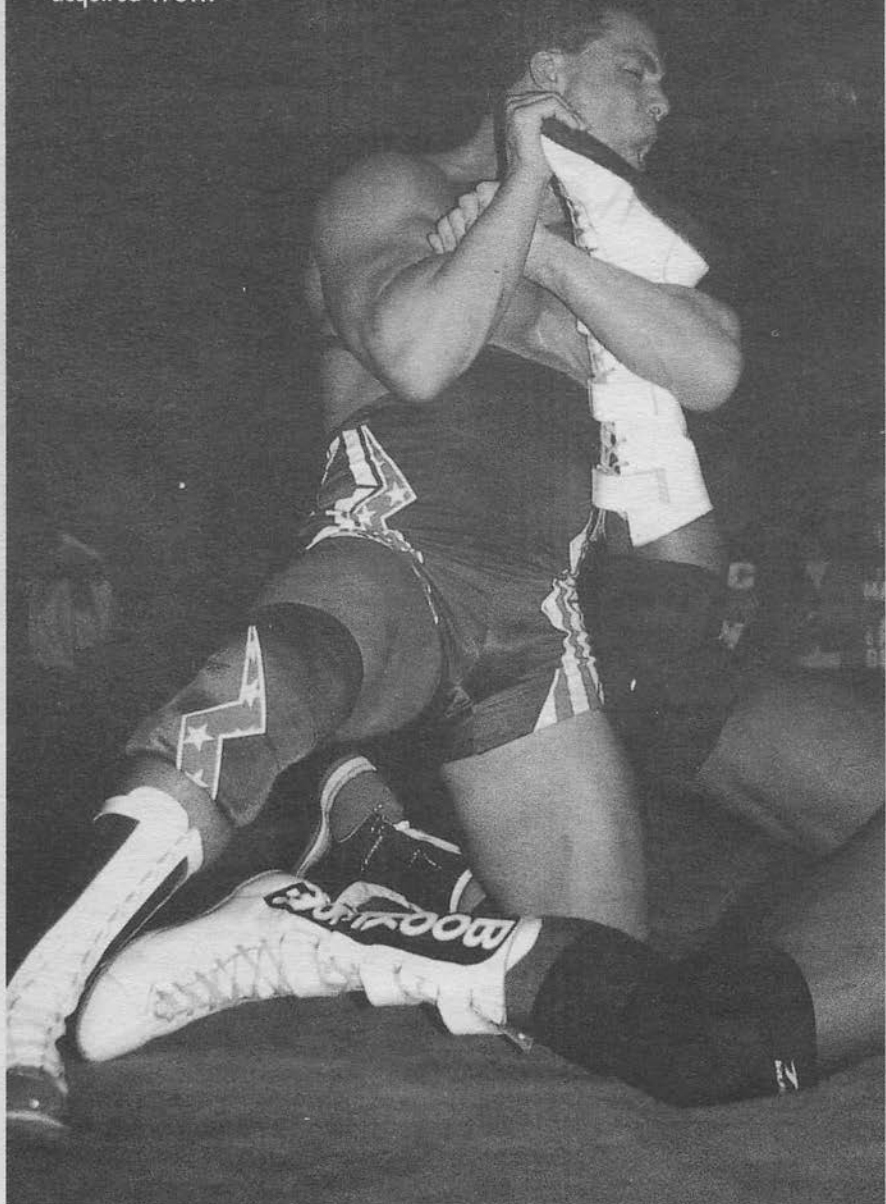

¹⁸ The title was held up following the bout between Corino and Shinya Hashimoto on October 13 in St. Petersburg, Florida, which was stopped when it was ruled Corino could no longer properly defend himself.

¹⁹ Hashimoto defeated Steve Corino and Gary Steele in a three-way bout to fill the vacant title.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ According to World Championship Wrestling, Ric Flair—who had been known worldwide as the NWA World champion—was acknowledged as the first WCW World champion during this reign.
- ² Ric Flair had been stripped of the WCW World title on July 1 after he could not come to a contractual agreement with WCW. Lex Luger and Barry Windham were determined to be the top contenders to the title.
- ³ Randy Savage won the title in a 60-man battle royal at the World War III pay-per-view event. Hulk Hogan lost the title to The Giant on October 29 at Halloween Havoc due to a clause in the contract placed by Jimmy Hart that the belt could change hands on a disqualification; since the disqualification was due to Hart's interference, the title was declared vacant and put up for grabs in the World War III battle royal.
- ⁴ Ric Flair won a triangle match against Sting and Lex Luger by countout earlier on the card to determine a challenger for Savage's title that night.
- ⁵ Sting was ordered to surrender the title on January 8 because of the controversial endings of both the match in which he won the World title from Hogan (December 28) and the rematch the next night. This was a match for the vacant title.
- ⁶ Nash simply laid down and allowed Hogan to pin him in this match.
- ⁷ This was a four-corners match also involving Sting and Hollywood Hogan.
- ⁸ This was a four-corners match also involving Bill Goldberg and Kevin Nash.
- ⁹ Savage pinned Nash in a tag team match that had a stipulation that said Nash would lose the belt if someone pinned him.
- ¹⁰ Bill Goldberg had apparently won the belt from Sting in a special challenge match on October 24, but one night later, the title was declared vacant because Sting vs. Goldberg was not a sanctioned match and because Sting attacked the referee after it was over. Hart beat Benoit in the finals of a 32-man tournament.
- ¹¹ Due to the controversial nature of his victory over Bill Goldberg the previous night, Hart gave up the title on this night, then won it back by beating Goldberg later.
- ¹² This was a match for the vacant title. Bret Hart had to give it up due to a head injury.
- ¹³ Chris Benoit's victory was overturned a night later because Sid's foot was under the ropes when Benoit applied the Crippler crossface. This match for the vacant title.
- ¹⁴ This was yet another match for the vacant title, as Nash stripped Sid for failing to beat the proper Harris brother before beating Nash the previous night.

¹⁵ This was the final match in a tournament for the vacant title. Eric Bischoff and Vince Russo stripped all WCW champions of their titles when they relaunched WCW on April 10.

¹⁶ Arquette won the title by pinning Bischoff in a tag team match pitting him and DDP against Bischoff and Jarrett. The man scoring the winning pin got the title.

¹⁷ This was a three-way cage match also involving Dallas Page.

¹⁸ Vince Russo awarded the title to Jarrett because Flair was injured.

¹⁹ This was a three-way match also involving Scott Steiner.

²⁰ Nash gave the title to Flair.

²¹ This was a match for the vacant title. Russo gave it up earlier in the night.

²² This title was renamed simply the World title after the WWF vanquished the Alliance at Survivor Series On November 18 in Greensboro, North Carolina.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ In December 1981, the Andersons were stripped of the title for being unable to defend the belts due to an October 1981 injury to Gene Anderson.
- ² This was a tournament final.
- ³ This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Rick Steamboat announced his retirement on December 25, 1983.
- ⁴ Though Ivan & Nikita Koloff won the belts, any pair of the trio of Ivan & Nikita Koloff and Krusher Khrushchev were allowed to defend the title.
- ⁵ This was a tournament final. Mike Rotundo & Steve Williams were stripped of the title after their May 7, 1989, defense against The Road Warriors, where Dan Spivey and Kevin Sullivan interfere on their behalf by attacking guest referee Nikita Koloff.
- ⁶ The Steiners are regarded as the last NWA World tag team champions and the first WCW World tag team champions. A tag team tournament to fill the vacancy was held July 12, 1992, at the Great American Bash. The tourney was won by Terry Gordy & Steve Williams. Co-recognition of the champions as NWA/WCW World tag team champions continued through September 1, 1993, when WCW withdrew from the NWA, and the NWA in turn withdrew recognition of the champions, at the time Arn Anderson and Paul Roma, who then became known strictly as WCW World tag team champions.
- ⁷ This was a tournament final. Rick & Scott Steiner were stripped of the title in late-July 1991 when Scott was forced out of action with a torn left biceps muscle.
- ⁸ Lord Steven Regal was allowed to substitute for the injured Brian Pillman.
- ⁹ Syxx substituted for Kevin Nash, who was sidelined with a knee injury.
- ¹⁰ Because Sting and The Giant couldn't get along and wouldn't defend the title together, the WCW Executive Committee ordered them to wrestle each other in a singles match, with the winner getting the title and the right to select the co-holder of the title; Sting won and chose Kevin Nash.
- ¹¹ Scott Steiner was allowed to defend the title on Hall's behalf (with The Giant) in a match against Rick Steiner and Buff Bagwell; Rick won the title by pinning The Giant after Bagwell walked out on him. The next night he chose Kenny Kaos to be the co-holder of the title.
- ¹² This was the final match of a double-elimination tournament for the vacant title, which had been basically ignored during the previous few months.
- ¹³ This was a three-way match also involving Chris Benoit and Dean Malenko.
- ¹⁴ Kanyon was allowed to substitute for the injured Raven.

- ¹⁵ The trio of Bam Bam Bigelow, Dallas Page, and Canyon had been permitted to defend the title in any combination of two.
- ¹⁶ Because Misterio injured his knee and was unable to wrestle, he and Konnan were stripped of the title. This was a three-team match for the title that also involved Konnan and Billy Kidman and Brian Knobs and Hugh Morrus.
- ¹⁷ Hall and Nash were stripped of the title on December 27 because Hall was unable to wrestle due to a knee injury. A tournament to determine new champions got underway that same night.
- ¹⁸ This was a tournament final. Previous champs Scott Hall & Kevin Nash had been stripped earlier in the evening when Hall failed to show up at the arena on time.
- ¹⁹ This was a tournament final. Eric Bischoff and Vince Russo stripped all WCW champions of their titles when they relaunched WCW on April 10.
- ²⁰ Jindrak & O'Haire won a battle royal for the title, which became vacant when Disco lost to Ernest Miller a week earlier after saying Miller could strip Guerrera & Misterio if Miller pinned him.
- ²¹ Skipper substituted for an injured Disco.
- ²² This filled the title vacancy created when Commissioner Mike Sanders stripped Nash & Page.
- ²³ This title was unified with the WWF World tag team title when The Dudley Boyz beat The Hardy Boyz at Survivor Series on November 18.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ Wahoo McDaniel was stripped of the title in September 1981 after being injured by Abdullah the Butcher. A tournament was ordered to fill the title vacancy.

² This match was a tournament final.

³ Sgt. Slaughter was awarded the title when Wahoo McDaniel was unable to show up for a title

- match as the result of having sustained an injured left leg at the hands of Magnificent Muraco and Roddy Piper.
- 4 Greg Valentine was awarded the title when the match was halted due to a bloody gash over Roddy Piper's left ear that rendered him unable to continue.
- 5 The title was held up and vacated after this bout due to the interference of Tully Blanchard, who hit Rick Steamboat in the head with a chair.
- 6 This match was a tournament final.
- 7 This match was the final bout in a best-of-seven series to fill the vacancy created in May 1986 when Magnum T.A. was stripped of the title for attacking NWA President Bob Geigel.
- 8 This match was a tournament final. Dusty Rhodes had been stripped of the title in April 1988 for hitting NWA President Jim Crockett with a baseball bat.
- 9 This match was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Lex Luger won the WCW World title on July 14, 1991.
- 10 This match had been intended as a bout to determine the number-one contender to Rick Rude's title. When Rude was stripped of the belt in December 1992 for failing to defend it (he was injured), the bout instead became a contest to determine a new champion.
- 11 This match was to fill the title vacancy. The title had been declared vacant in May 1993 as the result of a controversial double-pin situation between Dustin Rhodes and Rick Rude.
- 12 Steve Austin had been awarded the title earlier in the evening via forfeit when Steamboat, his original opponent for the night, was unable to wrestle due to a back injury.
- 13 Big Van Vader is stripped of the title in early-April 1995 for multiple violent offenses.
- 14 This was a tournament final to fill the title vacancy.
- 15 The title was declared vacant in September after Flair suffered a shoulder injury.
- 16 This was a tournament final to fill the title vacancy.
- 17 Hart and Page were deemed the top two contenders when Goldberg gave up the U.S. title upon capturing the World title.
- 18 Jarrett was awarded the title by new WCW Commissioner Kevin Nash just one day after he was stripped of it.
- 19 This was the final match of a tournament. Eric Bischoff and Vince Russo stripped all WCW champions of their titles when they relaunched WCW on April 10.
- 20 This was the final match of a tournament held to fill a vacancy created when WCW Commissioner Ernest Miller stripped Scott Steiner for using the Steiner recliner, a hold he had banned, on Mike Awesome on July 9.
- 21 Rection beat Storm and Hacksaw Duggan in a handicap match.
- 22 Booker T simply awarded the title to Kanyon.
- 23 This title was unified with the WWF Intercontinental title when Edge beat Test at Survivor Series on November 18.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ This was the tournament final for the newly created division.

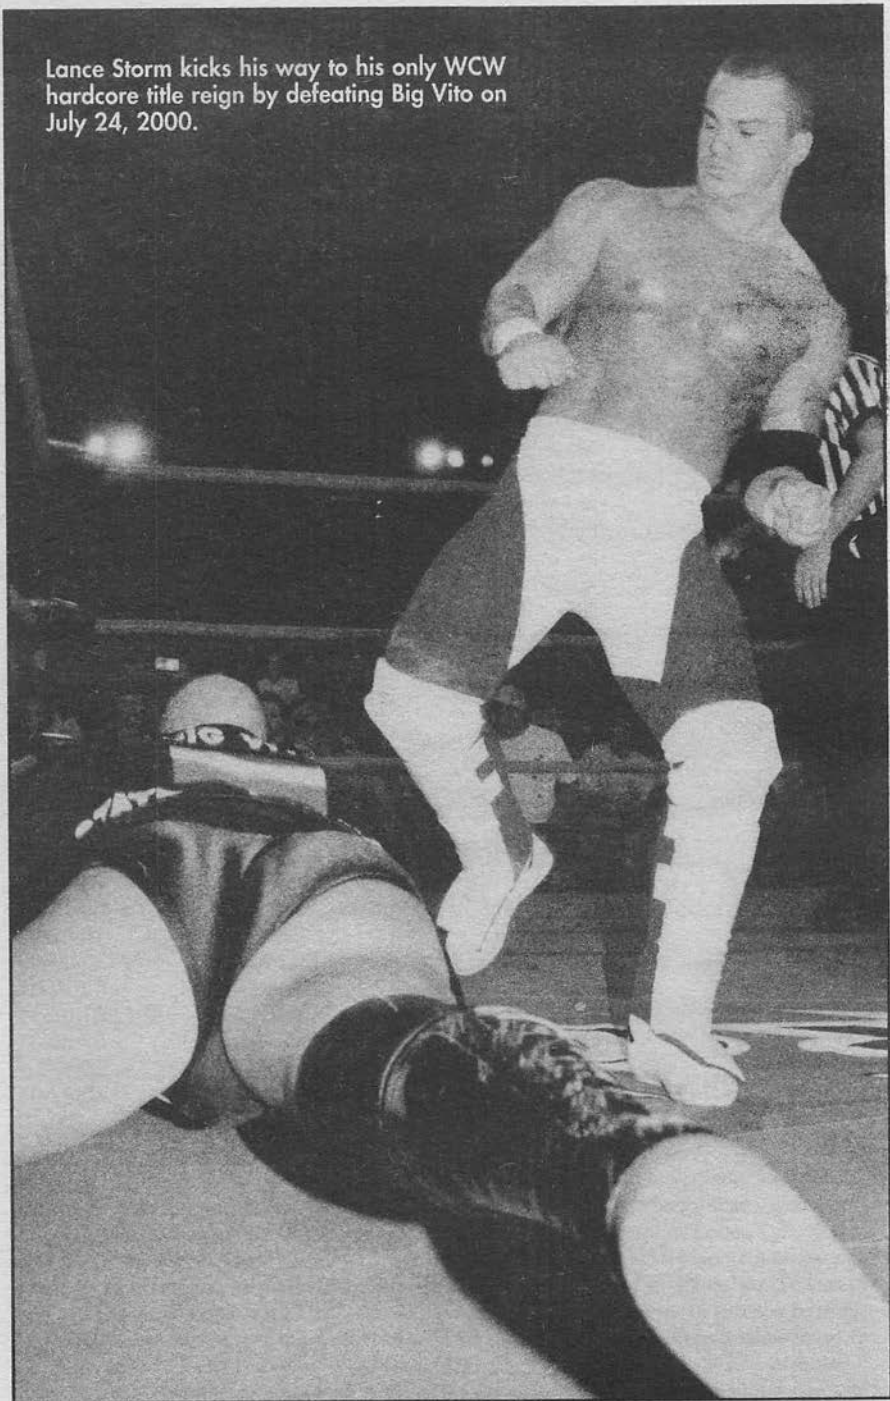

² Armstrong was stripped at Clash of the Champions XX on September 2 for not defending within a 30-day period. A tournament was scheduled for early-1993 but never took place.

³ This was a tournament final.

⁴ Malenko gave up the belt several weeks after he won it when Jericho protested that he never signed a contract to wrestle Malenko, who earned his title shot by winning a cruiserweight battle royal under a mask on May 17. This match was for the vacant title; Jericho won by disqualification.

⁵ This was a four-way match also involving Blitzkrieg and Juventud Guerrera.

Lance Storm kicks his way to his only WCW hardcore title reign by defeating Big Vito on July 24, 2000.

- ⁶ Lane was stripped of the title for reasons never made clear by WCW; Psicosis, who had been scheduled to challenge for it, was then awarded the championship.
- ⁸ This was the final match of a tournament held to fill a vacancy created when Oklahoma gave up the title.
- ⁹ This was a six-man match for the vacant title. Eric Bischoff and Vince Russo stripped all WCW champions of their titles when they relaunched WCW on April 10.
- ¹⁰ Crowbar & Daffney were declared co-champions after Daffney pinned Tammy Sytch in a mixed tag match also involving Candido in which the title was on the line.
- ¹¹ Daffney won this match to become the undisputed cruiserweight champion.
- ¹² This was a three-way match also involving Disco Inferno.
- ¹³ Storm awarded the title to Skipper.
- ¹⁴ Helms was renamed The Hurricane shortly after he debuted in the WWF-owned WCW.

Shane Douglas flips over Bam Bam Bigelow en route to his fourth and last ECW World title win on November 30, 1997 in Pittsburgh, PA.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ Jimmy Snuka and Wildman Bellomo won separate battle royals to advance to a match in which the winner was awarded the first ECW heavyweight title.
- ² Shane Douglas won the title by forfeit when Tito Santana did not appear for the match.
- ³ Shane Douglas pinned Terry Funk in an eight-man tag team match; due to a prematch stipulation, the title changed hands. Also, on August 27, 1994, Eastern Championship Wrestling was renamed Extreme Championship Wrestling.
- ⁴ The Sandman defeated previous champion Mikey Whipwreck and Steve Austin in a triangle match for the title.
- ⁵ Stevie Richards substituted for Raven in a tag team match that had as a stipulation that if he got pinned, Raven would lose the belt.
- ⁶ Shane Douglas was victorious over both Sabu and Terry Funk in this three-way elimination match.
- ⁷ This was a three-way match also involving Masato Tanaka.
- ⁸ Corino pinned Justin Credible at the end of a four-man "Double Jeopardy" match after both Lynn and The Sandman had been eliminated.
- ⁹ This was a three-way match also involving Justin Credible.
- ¹⁰ ECW ceased running shows in mid-January and officially folded a few months later.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ This was a tournament final.

² This was a tournament final; the title had been declared vacant earlier in 1987 when Tatsumi Fujinami and Kengo Kimura split up their team.

³ IWGP officials declared the title vacant when Scott Steiner failed to appear for a scheduled title defense. Rick Steiner was allowed to choose a partner and wrestle Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta for the vacant title.

⁴ This match was held to fill the title vacancy created when Hiroshi Hase & The Great Muta stepped down from the championship shortly after Muta won the IWGP heavyweight title on May 3, 1995.

⁵ The title was declared vacant a few days prior to this bout when it was determined that Masa Chono & Hiroyoshi Tenzan couldn't defend the championship on this date due to personal reasons (Chono's father passed away).

⁶ This was the final match of a tournament held to fill the vacancy created when Keiji Muto and Chono gave up the title due to Muto's knee injury.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ August 1960 saw the formation of the American Wrestling Association. Title recognition was given to Verne Gagne who, at the time, was generally recognized as the uncrowned champion in wrestling.

² It was later discovered that Mr. M was Dr. Bill Miller.

³ Verne Gagne held the title until his retirement on May 10, 1981.

⁴ Nick Bockwinkel was awarded the title due to Verne Gagne's retirement, his No. 1 ranking at the time, and his status as former champion.

⁶ The title was officially awarded to Curt Hennig on May 13, 1987, when, by a 4-2 vote, an AWA

Mad Dog Vachon
defeated The Crusher for his second and last AWA World title reign on November 11, 1965.

review board determined through videotape replay that there was no evidence Larry Zbyszko illegally aided Hennig.

⁸ Larry Zbyszko was stripped of the title on December 12, 1990, when he left the AWA for WCW. Shortly thereafter, the AWA folded.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ Tiny Mills & Stan Kowalski were NWA International and NWA World tag team champions, and held the belts when the latter title was renamed the AWA World tag team title.
- ² Len Montana's leg was broken in a March 1961 bout; Hardboiled Haggerty chose Gene Kiniski as his replacement partner.
- ³ Hardboiled Haggerty and Gene Kiniski had split up while champions; Haggerty chose Bob Geigel as his new partner.
- ⁴ This was the final of a nine-team tournament. The title had been declared vacant earlier in the month when Otto Von Krupp was injured.
- ⁵ Larry Hennig's leg had been broken some time before this match by Verne Gagne, forcing Harley Race to choose a replacement partner.
- ⁶ Red Bastien chose Crusher as his new partner after Hercules Cortez was killed in an automobile accident in Minnesota on July 23, 1971.
- ⁷ Pat Patterson and Ray Stevens were awarded the belts by AWA President Stanley Blackburn when Jim Brunzell injured himself in a softball game and the championship team of Brunzell and Greg Gagne were unable to defend the belts.
- ⁸ Verne Gagne was vacationing in Europe at the time of the bout; Adonis and Ventura were awarded the belts by default.
- ⁹ Doug Somers was allowed to substitute for Boris Zukhov, who had moved from the AWA to the WWF.
- ¹⁰ This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant on September 18, 1989, when Ken Patera was injured by Wayne Bloom and Mike Enos.
- ¹¹ D.J. Peterson & The Trooper were the last champions. The AWA folded shortly thereafter.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ This was the final round of a tournament to determine the NWA television champion. Dick Slater's U.S. title, of course, was not on the line in this match. Also note that in a semifinal encounter vs. Assassin #2, Mark Youngblood put feet up on middle ropes to gain the pinfall.
- ² This was a tournament final. The title was declared vacant when Dusty Rhodes was unable to defend the belt due to an injury.
- ³ This was a first-blood match at Starrcade '86.
- ⁴ The belt had been held up since July 23, 1989, when Sting pinned The Great Muta, but tapes later showed that Muta's shoulders were off the mat.
- ⁵ This was a best-of-three-falls match.
- ⁶ This was Clash of the Champions XX. It was also a no-DQ match with Paul E. Dangerously locked in a cage suspended above the ring. Rick Steamboat won with a flying bodypress off the top rope.
- ⁷ This was the final round of a tournament to determine a new champion. Scott Steiner was stripped of the title when he went to the WWF in November 1992.

⁸ Stevie Ray defended the title on behalf of his brother while Booker T was out with a knee injury.

⁹ Scott Hall was awarded the title when Steiner was too injured to defend it at Mayhem, but soon thereafter, he threw the belt in the garbage.

¹⁰ Hacksaw Duggan began making title defenses after retrieving the belt from the garbage.

FLORIDA STATE HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

(NOTE: This title was formed in 1966 when Lester Welch defeated Sputnik Monroe in Tampa, Florida, to become the first champion. Our most reliable continuous lineage information stretches back only to August 7, 1980.)

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ Dory Funk Jr. was awarded the title via forfeit when Barry Windham, injured in an auto accident, was unable to defend the title.
- ² This match was the last round of a title tournament. Bruiser Brody had been stripped of the title when an August 24, 1982, match between Brody and Brian Blair reached an irresponsible level of brutality.
- ³ This was a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant when Mike Graham was injured and unable to defend the title for 30 days.
- ⁴ This is a tournament final. Barry Windham had been stripped of the title when he left Florida to compete in Japan.
- ⁵ This is a tournament final. The title had been declared vacant several weeks earlier when Hercules Hernandez left Florida to compete in the WWF.
- ⁶ This match was to determine the champion after the title had been held up following a match in which Ron Bass used chloroform against Barry Windham.
- ⁷ Mike Rotundo gave the title belt to Rick Steiner in December 1988. He was subsequently stripped of the title, and the championship was abandoned later that month.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ This is a tournament final.
- ² Paul Orndorff relinquished the championship belt on television in Atlanta on July 31, 1982. He claimed defending the belt took too much time away from preparations for NWA World title matches with Ric Flair.
- ³ This was the final round of a round-robin tournament.
- ⁴ Killer Brooks defeated Paul Orndorff in the scheduled title match. Larry Zbyszko bought the title from Brooks for $25,000. Zbyszko was subsequently stripped of the title, on April 30, 1983. A tournament was ordered to determine the new champion.
- ⁵ This is the final round of a title tournament; see note 4, above.
- ⁶ Brad Armstrong masqueraded as Mr. R and was unmasked by Ted DiBiase, who thought it would be Tommy Rich under the mask. While Rich waved at DiBiase from Gordon Solie's broadcast podium, a shocked DiBiase became the victim of Armstrong's pin.
- ⁷ Wahoo McDaniel was defeated by Nikita Koloff in a match to unify the National and U.S. titles, on September 28, 1986 in Atlanta. See U.S. title chart (page 84) for more information.

FOOTNOTES:

¹ Title held up the next day because Wahoo McDaniel had interfered in the match. Von Erich won the rematch on October 21, 1969, in Dallas.

² This was a tournament final to fill the vacant title.

³ This was an awarded title.

⁴ This was an awarded title.

⁵ Title held up December 20, 1980, after a match against Kevin Von Erich.

⁶ Kerry Von Erich substituted for Kevin in match for held-up title.

⁷ Fritz Von Erich retires after match.

⁸ This was an awarded title.

⁹ Title held up after match against Jimmy Garvin on July 11, 1983.

¹⁰ World Class seceded from the NWA and claimed this was a "world title" match.

¹¹ Awarded title by forfeit when Von Erich no-shows.

¹² Fujinami wins title by countout in accordance with World Class rules, but voluntarily returns the belt.

¹³ Title unifies with USWA heavyweight; lineage resumes in that section.

FOOTNOTES:

- ¹ This was the main event of the SuperClash II pay-per-view. The match was stopped due to Kerry Von Erich bleeding too heavily. Jerry Lawler, who held the AWA World title at the time, unified that title with Von Erich's World Class heavyweight title; the unified championship became known as the USWA heavyweight title.
- ² This was the final bout in a 21-man tournament. The Snowman had been stripped of the title on August 27 after he was injured and could not defend the belt within the required 30-day period.
- ³ This was a Survivor Series final, an eight-man match that saw Jerry Lawler pin Tatanka in a bout pitting Lawler, Jeff Jarrett, & The Moondogs against Tatanka, Tommy Rich, & The Dog Catchers.
- ⁴ This was a battle royal to fill the title vacancy created when Randy Savage left the USWA just a few days earlier.
- ⁵ Jerry Lawler forfeited the title because he was injured by Sid Vicious earlier on the card and could not appear for the scheduled match.
- ⁶ This was a tournament final; Jarrett had to vacate the title because of a back injury.
- ⁷ The Memphis-based promotion, in the midst of legal entanglements, ceased running cards in the fall of 1997.

WRESTLING SUPERCARDS

In a sport that has no beginning and ending points within a calendar year, the supercard has often served as the culmination of a year's worth of activity, the one card on which lasting feuds are brought to a conclusion. Just what constitutes a supercard is a matter of interpretation. The size of the venue, the use of wrestlers who normally do not compete in the geographic area in which the card is held, the number of high-level championship matches—these are all considerations. The mere fact that a promoter touts his card as a supercard (e.g. any David Von Erich Parade of Champions after number three) does not necessarily make it so. One thing that is definitely so: The concept of the supercard did not begin with the advent of pay-per-view.
